A. F. of L. Executives Gather To Try Lewis and Allies, But "Defendants" Are Absent

Boycott of Session is Challenge of United Mine Workers to Federation on Their Right to Try Them.

BIGGEST SPLIT

Federation Would Lose One-third of Members If Council Should Suspend Group.

Washington, Aug. 3 (AP)—With the chairs of the "defendants" vacant, angry members of the American Federation of Labor executive council gathered today to try John L. Lewis and his allies in the federation's industrial union faction on charges of "insurrection."

Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, and his 11 associates in the committee for industrial organization challenged the council's right to try them and boycotted the session.

Unions in the Lewis group are said in labor circles to include more than 1,000,000 workers. If the council should decide to suspend them, the federation would lose about one-third of its membership and one-third of its revenue.

Such a split, labor men said, would be the greatest in the American labor movement since a group of craftsmen broke away from the Old Knights of Labor 50 years ago to form the A. F. of L.

Efforts to reconcile the differences between the Lewis faction and the dominant craft union group led by William Green, A. F. of L. president, were temporarily at a dead end.

The bitter feeling between the two reached a new high yesterday with the publication of a letter Lewis sent members of his union, assailing the executive council for "flouting" the "directions of the last two federation conventions."

Privately, craft union leaders denied the Lewis charge but they refused, they said, to "try their case in the newspapers."

Lewis' letter said:

"We maintain that there is room in the American Federation of Labor for both craft unions and for industrial unions; but the craft unions fear that supreme control of the federation will be wrested from their hands if they permit the entrance of millions of new members, organized industrially.

"In their selfishness they prefer their own narrow power to the benefit of millions of their fellow-men." *

"To sum up The committee for industrial organization believes that its acts are in accordance with the mandate of the convention of the American Federation of Labor, and with the wishes of the members of that body.

"We are fulfilling the instructions of the convention, which the executive council has flouted."

The federation's 1934 convention directed the executive council to start a steel organization campaign and to charter automobile, cement and rubber workers—all on an "industrial union" basis with regard for the jurisdictional rights of craft unions.

When the council issued a charter last year to the Automobile Workers, reserving the right of the craft unions to take in tool and die makers and maintenance men, Lewis said he had been "seduced by soft words"—that he understood the convention's order to mean that the automobile workers would get an out-and out industrial union.

Then the council put a similar restriction in a charter given the rubber workers, backed up the crafts in their fight to maintain craft units in Anaconda Copper Company camps, refused to charter an industrial union for shipbuilders, turned over the radio workers to a craft union, and decided to build up craft unions in the steel industry.

Thereupon Lewis quit the council and organized the committee for industrial organization, to promote the organization of all the workers in each big industry into one big union.

The trial was slated to start, in executive session, at 2:30 p. m. (Eastern Standard Time).

Monsignor Baker's Funeral

Lackawanna, N. Y., Aug. 3 (AP)—Hundreds of persons crowded into the basilica of Our Lady of Victory this morning for the funeral of the Rt. Rev. Mons. Nelson H. Baker, Lackawanna's world famed "Padre of the Poor." For blocks around the great white marble shrine which he built in his "Second Holy City," reverent crowds blocked the streets. All through the night an unbroken line of mourners passed the bier of the 95-year-old Catholic priest who achieved fame through charity and the slow procession continued until the hour of the funeral service.

Attack is Withdrawn

Little Falls, N. Y., Aug. 3 (AP)—Striking Remington Rand workers today suddenly withdrew their legal attack against the Remington Rand, Inc., in federal court in Malone, but a spokesman said this was merely for the purpose of transferring it to a Rochester federal court.

Loyalists Massed For Fresh Attack on Rebels In Jagged Mountains

Fascists Reported Moving Toward San Sebastian in Effort to Regain Control; Leftists Feel Sure of Victory.

MADRID CALM

Wendelin Says No Trouble in Madrid; Paris Acts to Avert World War, Praised.

By ALEXANDER H. UHL

(Copyright, 1936, By Associated Press).

Madrid, Aug 3—Strengthened Loyalists massed their forces today for a fresh assault on rebels in the jagged Guadarrama mountain passes

Confident Leftists asserted they had "no doubt" the onslaught would be successful, at the same time predicting "we will win in the end" over the Fascist insurgents.

New columns of Liberals were mobilized for action in the northeast where rebels hold Zaragoza and in the south at Cordoba and Seville.

The Fascists were reported, in advices from the northern side of the lines, to be moving toward San Sebastian in an effort to regain control of the resort town.

Small forces of rebels still held their positions in the mountain gateway to Madrid, these advices declared.

Renewed bombardment of Loyal fliers turned gas and electric plants at Palma, Mallorca Island, into a "formidable bonfire."

The government asserted complete authority had been established in Madrid with the return to work of construction employes. Officials declared no reports of military movements would be announced except where there were definite Leftist victories.

Madrid is Quiet

Washington, Aug. 3 (AP).—Eric C. Wendelin, leader of the 170 Americans remaining by choice in the Spanish capital of Madrid, said in a report published today that the city was quiet.

He added that public service companies were functioning normally. The Americans are receiving normal water, gas, electricity, telephone, train and subway service, he indicated.

Wendelin, charge d'affairs of the American embassy, ascribed the calm of the rebel-threatened capital to "absence of man power at the front and increased government control of the streets."

(Rebels have driven toward the capital in attempts to break through defending forces in the surrounding mountains.)

The Americans and other foreigners in the Spanish capital have received new assurances that the government would protect their lives and property, Wendelin said.

While American ships continued to take small groups of foreigners from Spanish ports, Ambassador Claude G. Bowers, reported quiet, too, at Vigo, another focal point in the attack plans of insurgents. Military rule has been established there, he said.

Appeal Is Praised

Paris, Aug. 3 (AP).—France, pushing for quick action to check a European war threat arising from Spain's civil strife, learned today her appeal to Great Britain and Italy for strict neutrality apparently was well received in London and less welcome in Rome.

Preliminary reaction in the Italian capital, informed sources declared, caused French fears Premier Mussolini might demand that Germany and possibly other nations be included in the "hands-off" agreement.

Such a demand, it was reported, would probably result in a long delay which would make the neutrality plan ineffective during the Spanish crisis.

Sources close to the foreign office hailed the fact the French communications suggesting the three-power pact was received and studied at Downing street Sunday, a usual British diplomatic holiday. These circles regarded this action as a favorable omen despite earlier pessimism over Britain's reaction to the proposal.

The leftist French press was generally of the opinion the British response would be favorable but at the same time reflected the coolness of the Italian reply.

Genevieve Tabouis, writing in the newspaper L'Oeuvre, indicated the Quai D'Orsay had already received assurance Great Britain would not permit "Italian occupation of any point in the Balearic Islands," making this a necessary condition to Mediterranean peace.

(French reports recently asserted Premier Mussolini might be favorable to the cause of the Spanish rebels in return for concessions allowing Italian use of certain Mediterranean ports.)

Gorilla Holds Record

Cincinnati, Aug. 3 (AP).—Cincinnati zoo officials claimed today for Susie the gorilla all attendance records for a local birthday party. More than 16,000 visitors thronged the zoo yesterday as she celebrated her tenth anniversary with no backing from the ventriloquist who has disturbed Susie's second Sunday performances. At least 4,000 attended the party itself, attendants said.

Leston DuBois For Coroner, Bruyn, Presidential Elector Completes Republican Ticket

In One Contest at Republican Convention on Saturday Coroner DuBois Defeated Jess McHugh of Wallkill—Speakers Declare New Deal Must Be Scrapped By Turning Out the Present Administration—The Ticket Recommended As Party Candidates.

"The New Deal must be scrapped and the only way to scrap it is to turn the present administration out. This country does not want a New Deal, all its wants is a Square Deal" declared William E. Bruyn of Wallkill in accepting the designation of presidential elector at the Ulster County Republican convention held in the Mulcipal Auditorium on Saturday. Only one contest marked the convention, that for the office of coroner with Leston D. DuBois of New Paltz, the present coroner, defeating Jess McHugh of Wallkill for the designation. County Judge Frederick G. Traver in accepting the designation of county judge announced that "win or lose that was the last time he would seek public office."

The convention presented a colorful scene with all of the delegates wearing Landon sunflowers while the stage of the auditorium was decorated with Landon's pictures, and the chairman's desk with sunflowers. Philip Elting, county chairman, presided at the convention which proved to be one of the most enthusiastic conventions ever held by the Ulster county Republicans.

The ticket that will be recommended to the enrolled Republican voters of Ulster county as the party candidates at the polls in November is as follows:

Presidential Elector—William E. Bruyn of Wallkill.

Congress—Philip A. Goodwin of Coxsackie.

State Senator—Arthur H. Wicks of Kingston.

Assembly—J. Edward Conway of Kingston.

County Judge—Frederick G. Traver of Kingston.

County Clerk—James A. Simpson of Phoenicia.

District Attorney—Cleon B. Murray of Ellenville.

Coroner—Leston D. DuBois of New Paltz.

Republican Days Here

"Sunny days are Republican days" said Fred Stang in placing the name of Mr. Bruyn before the convention for the designation of presidential elector, "and the sunny skies of today are a happy augury of the days to come. This is the year, he said, "that we are going to hang a sign on the White House reading that 'Frankie doesn't live here any more'."

Mr Bruyn in accepting the designation said he appreciated the honor conferred on him by the convention. "Never in the history of our country was there a time when it was more necessary than now to keep our feet on the ground" he said, "for down in Washington they have been chasing rainbows and building castles in the air for the past three years, and the time is now coming when we must pay for those rainbows and those air castles. We need a more sure foundation than the New Deal.

We are confronted, said Mr. Bruyn, with the position of where the government is borrowing money recklessly. Some day we will have to step up to the captain's office and pay. If they were spending their own money down in Washington they would undoubtedly be more conservative in its spending.

Mr. Bruyn declared that the country would have been much further ahead today if there had been no New Deal. If business had not been handicapped by the New Deal, he said "idle labor of today would be at work." Touching on the farm question he said that no farmer wanted the government to tell him how to run his farm; how much he should raise and what price he should get and what he should plant. There is a time, said Mr. Bruyn, when the farmer may need help, and when that time comes the coming administration of President Landon will give that help, but will make no attempt to run the farmer's business.

Admiral Kittelle Speaks

Admiral Sumner E. W. Kittelle of the U. S. Navy, who lives in Shandaken, presented the name of his friend, Congressman Philip A. Goodwin, for the designation of member of Congress. Admiral Kittelle is retired from active naval service. He is the oldest senior naval officer in the state, and his duties at Washington keep him at the capital from 8 to 3 months of the year.

In introducing Admiral Kittelle to the convention Chairman Elting said that the admiral was a former governor of the Virgin Islands and had also been in command of the Pacific fleet of the navy.

Admiral Kittelle said that during the years he had spent in Washington he had had considerable opportunity to observe Congress in action and that Congressman Goodwin had proven by his acts to have the affairs of the nation first in mind; the affairs of the state second and the affairs of this congressional district third. He said that Congressman Goodwin had made an excellent record in Washington and should be returned to Congress in November.

Business Gains Held No Seasonal Slump

New York, Aug. 3 (AP).—A midsummer panorama of broad business revival unfolded today as Wall Street sought to appraise the autumn outlook.

Busy steel mills, record electric power output, well sustained automobile production, a high level of retail trade, peak freight movement for the year and demand for new equipment by railroads were sketched into the July picture.

Business analysts accepted the latest statistical data as evidence that trade and industry, under momentum of a year of almost unbroken expansion, had held their recovery stride instead of slowing for the hot months in customary seasonal style.

How long the pace would hold was a matter of conjecture Some authorities have painted the autumn and Christmas outlook in bright colors, taking the mid-summer record as an indication of a powerful underlying recovery sweep.

Others contend that crop losses from drouth and a rise in food prices eventually would hit mass purchasing power. They trace the unusual summer showing of sustained business activity partly to the record peace-time outpouring of federal funds, mainly for the soldiers' bonus, and argue the stimulus of this money may be on the wane in the fall.

Mrs. Miller Held On Arson Charge For Burning Barns

Mrs. Katherine Miller, 46, owner of the property at Marbletown where two barns were destroyed by fire on the morning of July 30, was arrested by State Trooper Arthur Reilly Saturday on a second degree arson charge, it being alleged that she set fire to the buildings. Arraigned before Justice of the Peace L. D. Sahler at Stone Ridge, she waived examination and was held in $1,500 bail to await action of the grand jury.

Last Thursday Trooper Reilly began an investigation shortly after the fire when evidence of arson was discovered It was complained of at that time that Mrs Katherine Kraft, who leases the farm, had lost a considerable amount of farm equipment and chickens in the blaze. Mrs. Kraft and James J. Main work the farm on shares, Mr. Main working for Mrs. Kraft who leases the premises.

Following the fire Mrs. Kraft asked the Troopers to investigate the fire, she charging that the buildings had been fired. There was $100 insurance on the barns carried by Mrs. Miller and the insurance would expire about the middle of August. The tenants carried no insurance on the farm machinery and equipment which was housed in the two old barns. The loss of the equipment and a flock of chickens was placed at $300 by the tenants.

It was learned by the Trooper that there had been some differences between Mrs. Miller and her tenants. After several hours of questioning Mrs. Miller, the officers allege, told them she would make a statement to the effect that she did fire the barns.

Fire was discovered in the two barns and before it was brought under control by equipment sent out by Chief Murphy from Kingston, both the old barns were destroyed and the fire had communicated to a small outbuilding which connected with the house. Timely arrival of the local pumper saved the house.

Sherman May Die Tonight

Boston, Aug. 3 (AP)—Unless the Massachusetts supreme court grants the last minute appeal of Newell E. Sherman's attorneys for a new trial today, the 27-year-old Sutton choir singer may die in the electric chair tonight for killing his wife. His attorneys, J. Fred Hume and William W. Buckley, said they would seek a new trial today for the 240-pound singer convicted last October of tipping over a canoe and allowing his wife, Alice, 22-year-old mother of his two children, to drown in Lake Singletary, July 20, 1935. They said they had "new evidence" to present.

700 New Jobs Scheduled By N. Y. Water Supply, Appropriate $1,845,788

Nearly All of Existing Force of B.W.S. Will be Engaged in New Development to Start at Lackawack Soon.

CIVIL SERVICE

Three New Commissioners and Several Secretarial Posts Top List of Highly Paid Jobs.

Construction of the new water system on the upper Rondout creek by the city of New York will call for the creation of approximately 700 new jobs in the Board of Water Supply These jobs make up the force required to proceed with the development of the Rondout-Delaware project The Board of Estimates of New York city at a meeting held Wednesday approved a resolution appropriating $1,845,788 for approximately 700 new jobs in the Board of Water Supply.

Last June the Board of Estimates authorized a $17,500,000 issue of corporate stock for the project, $1,870,000 of which was allotted for personal service.

"The Chief," Civil Service employes' weekly, in last week's issue carries a list of the 700 jobs.

Nearly all of the existing force of the Board of Water Supply will be engaged in the new development which will begin with the development of the lower reservoir at Lackawack. The new forces proposed will be based on experience, being similar to the force employed at the Catskill mountain project when the Ashokan and Gilboa watersheds were developed, and the Board hopes to secure from preferred lists former employes of the Board to fill many of the new positions.

3 New Commissioners

The personnel service schedule as approved by the Budget Director and the Board of Estimate provides for three new commissioners, one at $12,000 per annum and two at $10,000; a secretary at $6,000; an assistant secretary at $3,500; an auditor at $6,000; and two confidential secretaries at $2,700 and one at $2,900.

Beside these administrative positions there are provisions for the following jobs:

Father Divine, Angels to March to Wilbur Heaven

Father Divine's followers are planning to hold a big parade in Kingston on Thursday, August 20, and Father Divine has gotten in touch with the Kingston police department asking for a permit to stage the parade. It is expected that the permit will be granted.

According to the plans announced Father Divine and his followers will arrive at Kingston Point by boat and desire to parade uptown and back down to Chapel street, where the Father owns one of the many Heavens located in Ulster county.

It is expected that there will be 100 cars in the line of march and about a thousand angels on foot.

At Chapel street there will be a picnic lunch and a general big time.

The only question that has not been definitely settled is the line of march for the parade.

The police department is anxious to have the parade proceed up Broadway to West O'Reilly street and down West O'Reilly street to Wilbur avenue and thence to the Wilbur Heaven on Chapel street.

It is said that many of those taking part in the parade will later be assigned to the various Heavens in Ulster county where they will make their future homes.

Frank W. Brooks Dead, A Leading Criminal Lawyer

Frank W. Brooks, one of the best known members of the Ulster County Bar and a leading criminal lawyer, died Saturday evening at 6:10 o'clock at his home, 155 Pearl street, following an illness of several weeks. Mr. Brooks, while not in good health for several months, has been about until a short time ago when he became confined to his home where a few days ago he lapsed into a coma.

A native of Olive, Mr. Brooks was born there on June 6,1879, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Brooks. He attended the public school in the town of Olive and later after completing his education he taught school in Olive for a time and then came to Kingston where he began the study of law. He studied in the office of Philip Elting and in the office of the late Judge A. T Clearwater and after admission to the bar he took up practice in this city where he has since practiced. Mr. Brooks was a criminal lawyer of special ability and his knowledge and familiarity with the criminal law carried him to the front as Ulster county's leading criminal lawyer, a reputation which he enjoyed for a number of years

At one time he served as deputy county clerk of the County of Ulster and later was named one of the first election commissioners of the county when the direct primary law became effective. He continued to hold that position until he was appointed Assistant District Attorney of Ulster county by County Judge Frederick G. Traver who at that time was District Attorney. Mr. Brooks served as Assistant District Attorney from 1919 until the fall of 1921 when he resigned and took up the private practice of law, specializing in the practice of the criminal branches. Not only in Ulster county but in adjacent counties Mr. Brooks enjoyed a reputation as an exceptional criminal lawyer and he was considered one of the most expert cross examiners in the locality and his services as defense counsel were widely sought.

During his early career Mr. Brooks was active in Republican political circles and not long after he was admitted to the practice of the law he was named by his party as candidate for the office of Recorder of the city of Kingston. However he was defeated by a very close vote by Harry Graves, the Democratic nominee.

Not only in the practice of the criminal law but also in the civil branches Mr. Brooks was considered one of the ablest members of the Ulster County Bar. He was noted for the care in which he prepared his cases prior to appearing in court and he was seldom taken by surprise through any move of opposing counsel, so well had he examined into the law before entering court. Any move of opposing counsel was usually met by Mr. Brooks and he battled with all that was in him for his client As an adviser to the young members of the bar and to law students Mr Brooks will be greatly missed No matter how busy he was he always found time to advise with and aid the younger members of the bar who came to him with their problems and many of the members of the Ulster County Bar today look back to advice which they were given during their early career by Frank W. Brooks, who was a friend and adviser to all.

During the past few years Mr. Brooks has appeared as attorney or counsel in many of the more important cases before the local courts He conducted law offices at 44 Main street for the past several years

Beside his wife, Anna Louise Hyatt Brooks, he is survived by one daughter, Dorothy Louise Brooks and his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs Walter Brooks of the town of Olive.

Mr. Brooks was a member of Kingston Lodge, No. 550, B. P. O. E. and of the Kingston Club Members of Kingston Lodge of Elks will meet this evening at 7:45 o'clock at the Elks Home and proceed to the A. Carr & Son Funeral Home, 1 Pearl street, where Elks services will be held at 8 o'clock.

Friends wishing to view the remains may do so this afternoon and evening at the parlors of A. Carr & Son, 1 Pearl street Funeral and interment will be private.

Herbert Glass Pays $25 Fine, Forced 4 Cars into Ditch

Herbert Glass, Jr, found it did not pay to operate his Buick car in a reckless manner and force cars off the public highway, particularly when one of the cars which was forced to the ditch was a State Trooper patrol car. It cost Glass $25 to put three cars and the State Trooper patrol car in the ditch Sunday evening.

John F. Hallinan and his son, Arthur F. Hallinan, of 298 Broadway, were driving out the Rosendale road when they were suddenly faced with the Glass car which was being driven at an excessive rate of speed. The Hallinan car was proceeding out the Rosendale road while the Glass car was coming in with several ball players. Hallinan was suddenly faced with the Glass car which swung out to its left from a line of traffic and started to pass on the two strip concrete pavement. There was but one thing to do and Hallinan did it. He swung in on a part of the old state highway which ran parallel to the concrete pavement and escaped the on-coming Glass car. Frank Turck of 24 East St James street was next in line and he was forced off the road. His son was next in line and he too was forced off the road.

At the same time State Trooper Arthur Reilly was coming down the road in the troop patrol car and he witnessed the sudden exit to the ditch of the cars and his turn came next. Reilly took to a three foot ditch but when the other cars all halted he was able to drive back on the pavement and give chase to the offending machine which kept on toward Kingston.

Trooper Reilly gave chase and near the city line caught up to the Glass car which had been driven off the main road and down on a portion of the old highway where the view was obstructed. The occupants of the machine which had been forced off the road returned and accompanied the Trooper to Judge Mooney's court where the reckless driving charge was pressed. Glass entered a plea of guilty and was fined $25 or 25 days in jail. He paid the fine Glass's residence is West Hurley.

INDIAN HELD FOR GRAND JURY ON LARCENY CHARGE

Democrats Plan To Endorse County Judge F. G. Traver

Democrats of Ulster county assembled today at the Municipal Auditorium shortly after 2 o'clock for their unofficial convention to recommend to the enrolled voters of the county candidates for congressman, state senator, assemblyman, county judge, district attorney and coroner City Judge Bernard A Culloton, county chairman, presided at the convention.

According to leaders of the local Democratic party County Judge Frederick G. Traver, Republican candidate for county judge, would be endorsed by the Democrats. The leaders also stated that Ray LeFever would be named county clerk.

Up until convention time there was no definite complete ticket.

College Youth Is Fine Poet and Paper-Hanger

Evanston, Ill.—A twenty-year-old paper-hanging sophomore at Northwestern university won critics praise with his first book of poems "Landscape With Figures."

The wall paper, said the poet, Lionel Wiggam of Indianapolis, had nothing to do with the title, for he disdained the modern touch. Wiggam said he was distinctly orthodox.

But orthodox was not the word his professors used to describe him. They long since gave up trying to make him study courses that bored him. When classes were run, Wiggam went to them. And only then.

Paper hanging was just one of those things a poet sometimes must do to live. Wiggam did it to earn his way through his freshman year. He was also a waiter and a janitor. Between jobs, he won prizes for his verse. His money gave out and he quit college.

Back home, he found inspiration as a truck driver, a farm hand, a road builder and art model, and turned out rhymes for leading magazines.

This year he went back to Northwestern, financed by a scholarship in the school of speech. There, under the friendly wing of Lew Sarett, famed woodsman and poet, he entertains classes with his verses.

Kerosene on Rails Saves Deer's Lives

Missoula, Mont. — Railroad workers, acting on a suggestion from forestry officials, are sprinkling kerosene on switches and rails to save the lives of deer.

Heavy snows, which made it difficult for locomotives to negotiate steep grades, also buried the usual salt supplies of the deer.

Railroaders sprinkled salt on the rails and switches to melt the snow. Deer were attracted by the salt, came from considerable distances to lick it. Many were killed by trains.

Rangers suggested kerosene to spoil the taste of the salt and discourage the deer from getting too close to the rails.

Greek and Roman Houses Proficiently Arranged

The arrangement of rooms in both the Greek and Roman house was carried to a point of proficiency, that has rarely, if ever been excelled, says a writer in the New York Sun. In every respect, except for electricity, central heating and mechanical devices, the better houses of these two earlier civilizations had about everything which the more recent house has. With a few extra servants, we could live just as comfortably in their homes as in our own.

Heating was a problem, but both the Greek and the Roman met changes in seasons ingeniously. In the up-to-date house in the time of Augustus there were enough rooms to follow the sun around the house. Romans, who were the technologists of antiquity, reduced the proper exposure for the different rooms to a formula; the special purpose to which each room served, required a different exposure, suited to convenience, and to the position of the sun. The principles which they set down can be, and often are applied in the orientation of the later house.

Winter dining rooms and bathrooms were in the southwest part of the house for the reason that they need the evening light, and also because the setting sun "facing them with all its splender, but with abated heat, lends a gentle warmth to that quarter in the evening." Bedrooms and libraries had an eastern exposure, because their purposes required the morning light; furthermore, books in such libraries were less subject to decay. If libraries were on the south, books would soon be ruined by worms and mildew.

May Apple, or Mandrake Legends of Roman Origin

Because the May apple also is called a mandrake, the Old world legends about mandrakes are often associated with it. These legends go back to Roman times when the mandrake root was considered a good luck charm. Old books, states a writer in the Detroit Free Press, contain very specific directions for digging up the roots of the mandrake so that a maximum of good luck may be derived from it. One of these old accounts reads:

"Tie a dog to the plant while it is being dug. When it is being dug, the dog will give a great shriek, for if a man should dig the plant alone, he will die in a short space after."

At one time Englishmen provided a good market for mandrake roots. People who sold them pretended that these roots had the power of increasing whatever money was placed near them. Sellers claimed that the roots grew nowhere else but in China and were brought to England with great risk and danger. As a matter of fact, the mandrakes were growing right in England's own fields.

The names of certain cities are household words around the world—New York, London, San Francisco, Paris, Shanghai. To millions of people they are synonymous with the names of the countries in which they are located. No world port, however, has ever seen so radical a geographical change in its harbor as San Francisco. From the Mark Hopkins hotel, that favorite observation point in the City of Seven Hills, one now looks down over San Francisco Bay and sees the two greatest traffic bridges in the world across a harbor in which the battleship fleets of several nations could anchor without disturbing commercial traffic.

Supper was served featuring a large decorated cake which formed the centerpiece for the table. The other decorations were of garden flowers. There were 18 in attendance. Mr. Ean is employed at the Hart Manufacturing Company. The wedding will take place in the early fall.

Surprise Shower

A surprise miscellaneous shower was given in honor of Miss Laura Maxon at the summer camp of the Misses Evelyn Swart and Martha Tremper at Lake Katrine, Thursday evening. The bride-to-be received many beautiful and useful gifts, together with the well wishes of all present, for a very happy future. During the early part of the evening boating and swimming were enjoyed by the guests, after which delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses. Those present were the Misses Mary Moran, Catherine Gallagher, Elsie Magoe, Mildred Kirkpatrick, Viola Davis, Marie Costello, Marion Tunney, Dorothy Maxon, Laura Maxon, Evelyn Swart and Martha Tremper of Kingston and Dorothy Slover of Fleischmanns, Peggy Wilklow of Stone Ridge, Ruth Mellus of Saugerties and Mabel Vollmer of Krumville.

Odd War Weapons in China

Probably the most unusual battles of modern times occurred in the civil wars in China. As firearms were scarce, says Collier's Weekly, the regiments that could not get cannons, machine guns, rifles or revolvers equipped themselves—and even won battles—with meat choppers, firecrackers, bricks, umbrellas and other improvised weapons.

First Fiscal Month Ends.

Washington, Aug. 3 (AP)—The treasury concluded the first month of the current fiscal year with total expenditures and deficit holding well below the comparable figures a year ago due to large repayments of old loans to several New Deal emergency lending agencies. All expenditures totalled $417,198,643 this year as compared with $727,535,077 last year. The deficit for the month ending July 31 was $123,221,875 this year and $448,626,133 last year.

Flying Office.

Chicago, Aug. 3 (AP)—A twin motored transport plane became the flying office of National Republican Chairman John D. M. Hamilton today as he turned to a swift swing through the west to organize party workers for the presidential election. Hamilton's second major campaign tour was scheduled to take him into 15 western states in 15 days, with speeches in 18 cities. Taking a cross-flight trail in his privately chartered plane, he planned to cover 6,446 miles.

Becker Funeral Services.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Aug. 3 (AP)—Funeral services for Robert A. Becker, 65, president and owner of the Fargo Manufacturing Company, who was found dead of a heart attack in a local park Saturday night, will be held at his home here tomorrow afternoon. Mr. Becker came here from Plainfield, N. J., where he was a signal engineer with the Canadian and Eastern Railroad. He was a member of the chamber of commerce, the signal department of the American Railway Association and of the Royal Arcanum and the Masons. He had lived in this city 26 years.

Glider Pilots Meet "Bad Air" Sunday At Mt. Meenahga

Some 20 glider pilots were present for the meet held Saturday and Sunday at the new soaring field at Mt. Meenahga, on the Shawangunk Mountain opposite Ellenville.

Among those attending the meet were a number of fliers who participated in the recent meet held at Elmira, including several who made outstanding records there.

Weather conditions both Saturday and Sunday were very unfavorable for soaring and were a disappointment to the pilots who had made the trip and brought ships with them. What wind there was came at infrequent intervals and blew from the wrong direction.

A number of ships went up, during the two days' meet, taking short flights or soaring around over the valley until they were forced to descend.

The meet was sponsored by the Metropolitan Soaring Association. A number of the officials of the Soaring Society of America were present, including Dr. Lange, vice president and meterologist at the Blue Hills observatory, Harvard.

A number of the pilots when questioned expressed themselves as well satisfied with conditions at the Mt. Meenahga site. They said that the field was an excellent one and that the site had great possibilities for development as a soaring field.

It was from this locality that Lieutenant Barringer made a flight in April last year, landing at Piketown, Pa., covering 156 miles, just a little short of the American sailplane distance record.

PORT EWEN

Port Ewen, Aug 3.—Mrs. Tom Browne, daughter Idella and grandson Buddy, and Clarence Browne of Brooklyn were recent callers at the home of Mr and Mrs. Peter Atkins.

The August meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Reformed Church will be postponed a week on account of the Dorcas festival.

Mr and Mrs. Peter Atkins and Miss Nellie Gardner were callers last Sunday evening at the home of Mr. Atkins' sister, Mrs. Alonza Boese.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Bigler and son, Ellsworth, of Union City, N. J, are visiting relatives in this place.

The Ever Ready Club and their families will hold a shore picnic at Mrs. William Schweigel's camp, Wednesday afternoon. If stormy, the picnic will be held Thursday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Mack Titus of Geneva, N. Y., and Mrs Fred Tubby of Kingston were visitors at the home of Mrs. Peter Atkins on Thursday.

The official board of the Methodist Episcopal Church will hold its annual flower show in the church house on September 3.

Mrs. Frank Wood, of Ellenville, is visiting at the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Short.

The annual festival of the Dorcas Society will be held on the Reformed Church lawn, Thursday evening. At the various booths will be found fancy articles, handkerchiefs, home made candy, hot dogs, ice cream and soda, also a mystery booth for the children will be in evidence. At 5:30 o'clock a creamed chicken supper will be served in the church house and at 8 p. m. an interesting entertainment will be given.

Five Major Tastes

There are a few fundamental points about the mechanism of the sense of taste, states an authority. The taste buds extending only part way back on the tongue are extremely sensitive to only five major tastes; namely, sweet, sour, soap, bitter, and salt. The really delicate sense of taste is in reality a sense of smell.

Lackawack Village To Be Wiped Off Map, 100 Years Old

The dam to be built at Lackawack by the city of New York to impound the waters of the Rondout creek and tributaries as part of the new water supply system for the city, will form a reservoir that will have a depth of around 200 feet where the village of Lackawack now stands. Water will back up the valley to the neighborhood of the Reformed Church and cemetery at the eastern edge of Grahamsville.

The village of Lackawack, which will be wiped off the map when the new reservoir is completed, dates back something like 100 years. In the old tanning days it was an active place, the Henry Bangs tannery there employing around 250 men in its most prosperous times. The tannery went the way of the many others that at one time dotted this section of the country, as the supply of hemlock bark became exhausted. Later for years Charles N. Morse ran an excelsior mill at Lackawack, but that, too, has been gone for years.

For some years past the principal business activity of the section has been the entertainment of summer guests. Outside of that there are at present three or four small stores and three garages and gas stations, which supply immediate local needs and cater to the traveling public.

The bounds of Lackawack proper are practically coterminous with those of School District No. 24. The village lies in the valley of the Rondout creek (or the "Lackawack stream" as it is better known in that section of the country) about seven or eight miles northwest of Napanoch, on Route 55. The valley at the point where the dam will cross it is narrow, perhaps half a mile in width at its base. Further up it widens out to a considerable extent. In length Lackawack proper, built up along the road which runs northeast of the Rondout, covers from one to two miles, depending upon how far toward the hamlet of Montela one considers the village to extend.

For some 75 years past Lackawack and its activities have been prominently connected with the name of Shiels and the hotel conducted by the late John Shiels was known far and wide for the entertainment it provided. It was visited by many men well known, particularly in political affairs, not only of this section but of the state. John Shiels started business there in 1856 and gradually enlarged and improved the property as its popularity increased. Mr. Shiels died in 1901, following which his son, James D. ("Jim") Shiels continued the business until the hotel burned to the ground in 1917.

James D. Shiels and his niece, Nora M. Plunkett, are among those who have the largest holdings at Lackawack to be taken over by the city of New York.

Mr Shiels was asked this morning where the people whose homes and lands are to be taken would go to make their future homes. He said that that seemed to be a question which few if any of the people concerned had taken up and settled yet, but he took it for granted that some of them would locate at Napanoch, others perhaps at Ellenville and still others would locate on new sites back in the hills. "There are some people," he said, "who couldn't be induced to leave this part of the country. They will get as near to their old homes as possible."

FARMERS BACK LANDON WITH DOLLAR CONTRIBUTIONS

Chicago, Aug. 3.—Another sure sign that the farm vote is lining up behind Governor Alf M. Landon, Republican presidential nominee, is the fact that many thousands of the Republican National Committee's dollar participation certificates are being returned with contributions from rural areas.

C. B. Goodspeed, national treasurer, reported that heavy contributions are being received from farmers and farm women all over the country who are expressing with cash the determination of the people as a whole to overthrow the New Deal and elect Governor Landon and Colonel Knox. Many contributions are from Democrats.

Participation certificates may be obtained by writing Mr. Goodspeed, Republican National Committee, in the Railway Exchange building, Chicago

17 Arrests Made in City Over Week End

Varied Calendar of Cases Brought to Attention of Judge Gill in Police Court Today—Mostly Traffic Violations.

The police department spent a busy time Saturday and Sunday regulating traffic in the city and seeing to it that peace and order were preserved. As a result of the activities of the police department 17 arrests were made, mostly for traffic violations.

Bernard Alcon, local taxi driver, was arrested by Frank Roe at the Central Bus Terminal, charged with annoying and interfering with bus passengers. Judge Walter H. Gill, who presided in police court today, imposed a fine of $5.

John M. Harney of Union, N. J., arrested on a charge of speeding 46 miles an hour on East Chester street, furnished bail for his appearance later in court.

Earl H. Priest of Belvedere, N. J., Patrick F. Joyce of New York and William Schwarz of Orangeburg, all charged with passing a red traffic light, forfeited $5 cash bail each by failing to appear in court.

Bennett Van Hoesen of Oneonta, driving with only one headlight on his car, forfeited $3 cash bail.

Gilbert Grey of 67 Ann street, arrested for driving a car without having the necessary operator's license, was fined $3.

Robert Stastny of R. F. D. 3, was fined $5 for using license plates on his car that had been issued for another make of car.

Kenneth Hendricks of 58 Meadow street, arrested on a charge of reckless driving in cutting in and out of traffic, pleaded not guilty and his hearing was adjourned. He was also charged with failing to have a driver's license or a certificate of registration for the car he was using.

Irving Speicer of 102 Hone street, was fined $3 for failing to observe a full stop sign.

Kenneth Saunders of 55 Harwich street, arrested for reckless driving, was fined $5.

John Earley, Hester Potters, Albert Johnson and James Brown, four negroes from out of town, arrested on charges of panhandling, were given an opportunity to leave the city.

George Magoe of New York was fined $3 for public intoxication.

Burnett is Fined As Drunken Driver, Girl is Injured

James Burnett, 28, of Walden, was arrested by State Trooper Arthur Reilly Saturday night on a charge of driving while intoxicated. Arraigned before Justice of the Peace Mooney at Eddyville, a fine of $15 was imposed. The fine was made small because of the fact that Burnett has four small children and the family is supported on a small wage.

The arrest followed an accident on the Rosendale-Kingston road near DeWitt Lake. The Burnett car struck a Buick car of Charles Rao of New York. Rao was coming toward Kingston at the time and Burnett was proceeding toward Rosendale Rao claimed his car was struck head-on. Miss Rose Herman of New York was injured about the left leg and on the right side of her face. She was riding in the Rao car. Both cars were damaged.

Burnett was brought to jail where he remained until Sunday when he secured the money and paid the fine

Brooklyn Man Runs Afoul on Board Bill

John Leete of 55 Hanson Place, Brooklyn, was arrested Saturday by State Trooper Arthur Reilly on a charge of violation of Section 925 of the Penal Law, jumping a hotel bill Leete was arrested at Cold Brook where he said he had gone to visit friends. The complaint was made by Matthew Redden, who operates a tourist place in the former Lockwood place on the Plank road. Redden charged that Leete had left without the formality of paying a $44.60 board bill.

Leete was taken before Justice Walter Webber of the town of Ulster where Leete pleaded guilty and agreed to make full restitution to Redden. Judge Webber imposed a $5 fine on Leete for his failure to pay the bill before taking leave.

CARS SIDESWIPE NEAR HIGH FALLS, NO ONE INJURED

Cars driven by William Messing of Joy's Lane and Louis Lounsbery of Kripplebush sideswiped each other just outside High Falls on the road to Rosendale about 9.45 Saturday night. Both cars were damaged, the Messing car leaving the roadway and landing in a nearby cornfield, but both were able to go on their way. The drivers were uninjured.

Deputy Sheriffs Vredenburg and McCullough investigated the accident, but made no arrests.

Blinding Headlights Blamed for Wrecked Car and Broken Pole

A telephone pole was broken off and cable and broken wires littered the roadway, blocking traffic for half the width of the road, when a car driven by Charles Gilsener of Brooklyn struck a pole near West Hurley about midnight Saturday. The accident happened, according to the story told Deputy Sheriffs Vredenburg and McCullough, when Gilsener was blinded by headlights of another car as he was rounding the turn near the junction of the West Hurley and Zena roads

The telephone company at once sent a man to the scene, but he saw that more help was needed to remove the heavy cable and wires and called a service truck and crew It was around 4 o'clock in the morning before the linemen got the mess cleaned up and temporary repairs made to the pole

Deputy Sheriff Ray Winne of Stony Hollow helped straighten out the traffic jam that resulted and later towed the wrecked car to his garage. Gilsener was not injured

3 Cars Mix-up on E. Chester By-Pass

Three cars were in a mix-up on the East Chester street by-pass, just outside the city limits about 6:45 Saturday evening and the resulting traffic congestion and repeated calls to the sheriff's office brought Sheriff Molyneaux and Deputies Vredenburg and McCullough to the scene in addition to Sergeant Cunningham and Trooper Keefe, who had been notified

The cars concerned were a Chevy coach driven by Louis Mayone, Sr., of Glasco, who was traveling toward Kingston a Ford sedan driven by Louis Elias of Brooklyn, and a Dodge sedan driven by Eugene Rapp of Saugerties. R. D. the last two cars being headed north Although there were a number of passengers in each car beside the driver, no one was injured The cars were considerably damaged, with jammed fenders and bumpers and wheels more or less smashed up, but all were able to continue under their own power.

Mayone was charged with having caused all the trouble and sideswiping the other two cars He was placed under arrest by Elias and taken before Justice Webber, but on his agreeing to pay for the damages to the other cars the charge of reckless driving was withdrawn.

Some day a radio plugger will discover that he can sell more goods by talking to people quietly and confidentially than by shouting at them.

STORM SWAMPS FLORIDA MOTORIST

This motorist was really left "in the middle" by the 100-mile-an-hour storm that struck southern Florida Gulf communities. The wind lifted the car, several yards into a swamp. The gale did considerable property damage, and three fishing boats off Florida coast were reported missing. (Associated Press Photo)

Lindbergh 'Furious' Over Danish Notices

Copenhagen, Aug. 3 (AP).—Col Charles A. Lindbergh was reported by his Danish host today to be "already furious over the publicity the Danish press tries to give him."

The American flier, accompanied by Mrs. Lindbergh, arrived here last night from Berlin to visit Capt. Andreas Dam.

"The telephones have chimed steadily since his arrival," Captain Dam declared. "He does not understand why he cannot be left alone as in England."

(Colonel Lindbergh and Chancellor Adolf Hitler of Germany did not meet during the twelve-day stay of the Lindberghs in Germany. It was disclosed later, however, the American flier and der Fuehrer sat within speaking distance of each other at the Olympic games.

(American diplomatic circles in Berlin explained "no time could be found that was convenient to both for which to arrange a meeting.")

Col Lindbergh was driven to the Danish Rockefeller Institute this morning by his host and introduced to Dr Albert Fischer, research expert

The flyer then began unpacking his mechanical heart which arrived several weeks ago in several cases

HEAVY WEATHER

Having a good time in the woods requires a little training and experience. It's like most anything worth while—it needs to have something put into it before anything of value can be taken out. A family just returned to one of our cities from the Canadian north reported a disillusioning time. It took hours to get meals on a wood stove. One child was seasick going fishing, one was sick all night on land. The woods were so wild they were afraid of animals, the shores too rocky to walk on with comfort, the water so deep they were afraid to let the children play near it. They couldn't get any decent food. They were glad to get home.

The neighbor to whom this was told felt her heart going out to the woman who kept house 50 weeks a year and then was dragged into two weeks of much harder housekeeping and heard the time called a vacation. But she knew that the complainants would go back. Once having tasted the cool, deep water, sunned themselves on the hot but windy rocks, "smelled wood-smoke at twilight, heard the birch-log burning," absorbed the pungent fragrance of a stand of cedars, under late afternoon sun, taken into the soul the ethereal beauty of moonlight on white birches, they would never be able to free themselves from that magic.

But next time they would be learning how to live a completely different life from that at home. They would know what foods were available and how to supplement them with cans, how to choose the fishing days by wind direction, where to find the low flats and tiny sheltered lagoons where the children could play in water with safety. They would take the cover off the honey pail in which their milk came warm from the milking and set the pail in a pan of cold water to keep sweet for morning. And next time Mother would be firm about seeing that Father took them out for three or four dinners a week at the village hostelry. After all, hot meals prepared by someone else with no marketing, paring, stirring, dish-washing or any other responsibility make the high comfort of Mother's vacation.

WAR BUSINESS.

President Wilson is said to have predicted that "there will be no neutrals in the next war." It doubtless looked that way to him, when nearly all the powerful nations had lined up in a great conflict during the World War. His idea of a world federation to preserve peace among nations as our American federation preserves peace among states was based on fear of general world suicide. But will his prophecy prove true? Now, with the powers all arming again on a bigger scale than before, another great struggle seems imminent. European observers expect it in another year or two. What can this country do to avoid getting sucked in again?

Says Dr. Frederick R. Coudert, formerly assistant U. S. Attorney General and now legal adviser to the British embassy at Washington: "All we can do at the present time, by statute, is to avoid some of the controversies engendered by the last war. To go farther would be quite useless. It is unthinkable that the United States would abandon all commerce and all transactions abroad, however legal or proper, during a war. While belligerent operations exist upon the high seas, there is always the possibility that the American flag might suffer injustice. The idea of 'foot-proof neutrality is the merest illusion.'"

Maybe so—technically. Maybe so—if we owe the American flag again to protect business profits, and then fight to avenge an insult to our national honor. But will national honor ever time be any less safe if we use our common sense to keep our people and property out of the war area? That last war cost more than all the money we made then and since, and a multitude of lost and wrecked lives.

BUILDERS' JOB

The present housing shortage is the most serious of the last 20 years, according to the Alexander Hamilton Institute. It is equal to the requirements of 3,000,000 people. Builders would have to erect houses at double the normal rate for the next three years in order to make up the deficiency.

Here is a tremendous need and a big opportunity. The situation calls for something more than the rapid erection of houses. It calls for special homes, within the moderate means of the people who need them most. It calls for costs low enough to stimulate building with reasonable profit, steady employment and ready buyers.

It took only seven years to drop to this shortage from 1929's greatest housing surplus of the last 21 years. How long will it take to overcome the shortage without permitting cheap and flimsy construction or creating an unsteady boom?

REMOVAL OF TONSILS

During the holidays from school many parents may have in mind the removal of their child's tonsils as recommended by the school physician. It is a "convenient" time for the operation as there is no lost time from school.

However the parents may be undecided about the tonsils because it means an anaesthetic, expense of operation, and a day or two in hospital. Besides they have heard of cases where the tonsils were removed and the youngster still had as many "colds" or had further attacks of rheumatism and even heart disease.

Now it is true that youngsters who have had the tonsils removed can have attacks of rheumatism which may be followed by attacks of heart disease, but the point to be considered is what is the "general" rule in these cases; and whether the removal of the tonsils does prevent attacks of rheumatism and heart disease to any great extent.

Realizing the amount of controversy that exists regarding the wisdom of removing infected tonsils and how much it means to the health of children and the happiness of parents Dr. A. D. Kaiser, Rochester, N. Y., has for many years done intensive research work on the influence of tonsils on rheumatic infection.

"To estimate the amount of rheumatic infection in children whose tonsils have been removed, and in those whose tonsils have not been removed Dr. Kaiser had the parents of 48,000 children interviewed. Of this number, 20,000 children had had their tonsils removed, and 28,000 had not had their tonsils removed. From the testimony of the parents nearly all the rheumatic symptoms occurred less often in those whose tonsils had been removed. Rheumatic fever which is usually a severe type of rheumatic infection was likewise reported less often in those whose tonsils had been removed. Among those with tonsils removed there were 37 per cent fewer cases with rheumatic fever. Chorea—St. Vitus Dance—seemed to occur just as often in those with tonsils removed as in those with tonsils. Muscular rheumatism, called "growing pains" was found almost as often in those with tonsils removed as in those who still had their tonsils, but rheumatic heart disease was found more often in those who had not had their tonsils removed."

What do these reports from the parents of 48,000 children (surely a goodly number) tell us?

These figures show that while rheumatic attacks occur in children whose tonsils have been removed, initial or beginning attacks of rheumatism are less likely to occur in those whose tonsils have been removed. Also the death rate among children whose tonsils have been removed is less than in those whose tonsils have not been removed.

These figures should help parents decide that if tonsils are bad and their removal has been recommended by the school medical officer, his advice should be followed.

MAN NEEDN'T PAY WIFE'S DETECTIVE TO TRAIL HIM

Dallas, Tex. (AP)—A jealous wife may hire a detective to trail her husband, says Justice John Baldwin, but she has no right to expect her spouse to pay the bill.

A Dallas wife, suspicious her husband was unfaithful because he remained away from home evenings, employed a detective to follow him. When the detective reported the "erring" husband merely had visited domino parlors and she, a few names of pool, the wife refused to pay him. The detective sued the husband.

Judge Baldwin ruled a husband was liable only for bills contracted by his wife for the necessities of life.

Some 6,000 Canadian soldiers stood on Vimy Ridge recently while King Edward VIII unveiled a monument to the courage of those other Canadian soldiers who gave their lives in the Great War. It was a beautiful and touching occasion. But a thoughtful person cannot but wish for the future visits of men and women from one country to another to witness the unveiling of monuments raised to long years of unbroken peace.

THE WORLD WITH A FENCE

A Story Retold by Marion Sims

SYNOPSIS: Carol Torrance is doing quite well at teaching high school in Ashboro, even though she only took the job to get away from her own home town. She has found a few congenial people, and curiously enough she has found also a blonde Irish giant in her classes, whose determination to get an education at any cost interests her very much. Mike Flannigan is his name, and Mike already has told the world what he'll do to anybody who starts anything in one of Carol's classes.

Chapter Nine

DENIS FORD

BEN TYLER said: "I don't know how good this dance'll be. It's what the society editor will call 'in the nature of a farewell to the college contingent.' The contingent may overrun the place completely, and considering that I used to run around with some of their mothers it don't make me feel any younger."

Carol shrugged. "I'm used to it. Don't worry about me."

They were to stop by Alice and Tom Harrison's, he said. Most of the crowd would be there. . . .

The Harrison house was brilliant with lights and crowded with guests. Alice put down her glass and rushed at Carol with outstretched arms.

"Carol, darling! I'm so glad to see you! I've been meaning to call you all week, but little Alice hasn't been well, and I've been swamped with . . ."

She kissed Carol, deftly avoiding enumeration of the things she had been swamped with, and Carol kissed her in return.

Tom came up and said: "Well, well, well. Welcome to our fair city!" He radiated hospitality. He'd grown fatter too.

When she had been greeted by her acquaintances and introduced to the strangers he steered her towards the portable bar that stood in the dining-room.

"Good Lord; you overwhelm me! I'll take a small quick one, I think: rye and ice water."

An unattached man drifted in, and was greeted with shouts of welcome. Carol looked at him in surprise.

He didn't look like Ashboro; he looked more like Hollywood. Most of the men were white linen suits, but the new man wore a linen mess jacket, and he was almost garishly handsome. The sort, she thought, who would have his picture taken with his shirt open at the throat.

Tom wanted, he said, to present Denis Ford. She acknowledged the introduction with a casual nod and went on talking to Ben. Denis Ford's type never cared for her—for some reason she attracted solider men who admired her mind and were afraid of it—so she saw no reason to bother. Ben looked gratified, and went on telling her about this trade he'd made.

THEY had one more round and then went.

They assaulted the club house with noisy gaiety. They were a social unit in themselves, and if the college crowd thought them antique, and the older people thought them fast—why, to hell with 'em all. They were self-sufficient.

Ben was waiting when Carol came out of the dressing-room, tapping a foot to the music. His dancing was even more unchanged than Ben himself; it went back to the days of the onestep and the hesitation. She followed him effortlessly, lost in the joy of dancing—even of dancing with Ben.

Someone touched his shoulder. Denis Ford's voice said: "May I break?" and Denis Ford's arms had carried her off.

He danced beautifully, of course. He probably knew all the steps of the tango. She smiled at him vaguely, and let herself drift.

He drew his head away and stared at her curiously. "What are you doing here?"

In Ashboro, he meant, intending it for a compliment. She said: "Teaching history and French in the high school. What are you doing here?"

He grimaced. "Living on the family until I can get a job." And then, in an awed whisper: "History and French. My God!"

That made her mad. "So I won't have to live on the family," she explained sweetly.

He should have winced, but he only grinned. "Oh, mine can afford it—for a while."

"What sort of job would you prefer?"

"None. I'm—oh—fitted for newspaper work. At least that's what I thought. The last managing ed. didn't agree with me."

"So you're waiting now to select something from all offers that are mailed in to you?"

He held her off and scowled. "Listen: do you excoriate everybody, or is it just me? After all, I've only been here a week, and it's my first real trip home in six years."

She was surprised, herself, at the way she had lashed out at him. I must be attracted in spite of myself, she realized, or I wouldn't be so nasty. . . . She smiled suddenly.

"I'm just naturally vicious."

His own smile was disconcerting because his eyes were so black and his teeth so white.

"Oh, yeah?" He drew her back to him. "No, sweet; you're just scared. So'm I. I'm in no position to be falling in love."

Tom cut in then, snapping her fury off at its root. She turned her back on Denis and smiled brilliantly at Tom.

"Just like old times, Tom." She said it, defying herself, because nothing could be less like old times than this.

Tom nodded vigorously. "You said it."

DENIS turned quickly away from Carol and Tom. He'd look up Alice, and check that off temporarily.

He felt sore all over, as if he had played an unaccustomed game of squash. Damn the girl anyway, for not seeing how he felt. If she was as intelligent as she looked she ought to have guessed that his attitude about the job was braggadocio: he had to get the news across before somebody else did.

The music expired with a death-rattle. He walked into a couple, backed away and apologized, and the girl smiled a brilliant invitation.

He looked after the girl. She was a kid who lived next door to him; she couldn't be more than sixteen or seventeen. An accident, Denis thought indifferently, looking for a place to happen. Well, let it.

Alice's smile was an older, wiser version of the kid's. She said: "I was wondering where you were, darling. Let's have a drink."

He agreed, and though, casually what a brainless fool Alice was. Tom's wholesale business had made money, and she couldn't take it. All Alice knew was what she saw in the movies.

They went downstairs to the grill and began making a lot of noise. Tom and Carol Torrance came in, and Denis looked quickly away from them.

He'd meant it when he told her he was scared. She was the sort he could go crazy about: cool as spring water, with a sense of humor and a nasty gift for irony. One eyebrow wasn't higher than the other for nothing, and her mouth was a little crooked—probably from smiling on the other side of it. They could have a swell time laughing at the show together.

He looked back at her, and their eyes caught. He made a wry face at her, but the room and the noise were outside the moment, and they were alone in it.

Alice said finally, against his shoulder: "Do I hear music?"

"If you want to call it that."

"Finish your drink in a hurry, then. I got rhythm."

He waited half an hour before he broke on Carol again, but he spent the half-hour leaning against a door frame watching her. He liked the way she danced, without giving her body away, as if she were keeping herself physically as well as spiritually inviolate. Her glance brushed him now and then, but after the first casual smile their eyes were sober and speculative, and he knew his own fear had found its counterpart in her.

She guessed, of course, why he wasn't dancing with her. When a man stands against the wall for half an hour and then cuts in on you, she realized, it's because he's fighting something he can't resist, or because the moment's too big to snatch at. He's playing with it, like a cat with a mouse, before he eats it. . . .

He went deliberately across the floor and touched her partner's shoulder. With the width of the room between them, and without a spoken word, they had fought it out in the last half-hour. They could even succeed, now, in being casual.

"Sort of belle of the ball, aren't you?"

She shrugged. "Novelty. Some of them are even pupils, and they can brag about it Monday. I hope to heaven my authority won't suffer."

"I'd put my money—if I had any—on you." He held her a little closer, and managed to touch her hair with his mouth. "Listen. Do we have to stay in here? I want to talk to you." And incidentally kiss you, he thought.

The eyebrow lifted. "Talk? You wouldn't kid me, mister?"

(Copyright, 1936, by Marion Sims)

But tomorrow Carol makes a date with Denis.

TALKS TO PARENTS

Individuality

By BROOKE PETERS CHURCH

Mr. and Mrs. X had four children. The first two they found very congenial. These, like their parents were deeply interested in cultural matters, and from the time they were quite small, could talk intelligently on music, books and pictures.

With the other two children, however, the X's could find no common topic of interest. Neither youngster cared especially for books or art, both seemed backward in any mental development. The X's were uncertain where to lay the blame. Sometimes they felt that their training had been at fault, sometimes that the children were stupid.

Had these younger ones belonged to another family, the X's would have accepted them as average children. That they, with their exceptional background and qualifications, could produce a couple of ordinary children, seemed impossible.

Parents must expect and be ready to deal with any and every kind of child. Intellectual giants may be born to dull parents, and children of less than average intelligence to brilliant ones.

The laws of heredity are erratic. When there are several children, one is tempted to expect them all to be like the first. The chances that any of them will resemble the first-born are, however, very slight, and it is hard on the younger children to ask them to measure up to standards which may be beyond them.

Each child must receive special study and guidance, according to his innate ability and natural taste.

Both father and mother must be ready to adapt themselves to as many kinds of people as they have children, and so to give all the children equal chances. No child should be made to feel a failure because he is unable to keep up with the standards set by a brother or sister.

BEES EXACT TRIBUTE FROM STOREKEEPER

Blackwell, Okla., (AP).—Bee "racketeers" exacted tribute from L. J. Eller, storekeeper here.

A swarm of bees surrounded the entrance to his grocery store and frightened away customers. Efforts to drive them off proving futile, Eller placed a pan of raw sugar in front of the store and the bees settled upon it. He had to fill the pan several times to keep the bees satisfied.

Poor Willy Nilly

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

WILLY NILLY was so tired he did not know what to do. The little gnome-like man had certainly been busy with the visiting animals, but now Puddle Muddle was itself once more.

"I should do so many things," said Willy Nilly.

"Come and swim. It will rest you more than anything," quacked Mrs. Quacko Duck.

So Willy Nilly and the others all went swimming and felt cool and refreshed.

But that evening Willy Nilly felt he could not hold up his head.

"I don't know what is the matter with me," he said.

"You're exhausted," barked Rip. "I should not have had such a foolish idea."

"It wasn't foolish," said Willy Nilly. "I think you did a very fine thing to give others a chance to enjoy our little settlement."

"But you are all worn out," Rip said. "And you are more important than any visitors."

The Puddle Muddlers made Willy Nilly lie down and Mrs. Quacko Duck rubbed his feet with brook liniment. Rip ran back and forth to the pantry and fixed the supper.

The bears sang little growling songs and before long poor Willy Nilly was asleep. And he rested and he rested and he rested.

They all went around on tiptoes so as not to disturb him.

A Washington Daybook

By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON — Evidently cautious about too definite interpretation of the Robinson-Patman (chain store) act, the federal trade commission is doing its missionary work among business interests tactfully.

The agent for this verbal missionary work is the commission's chief counsel, W. T. Kelley.

The act, forged in the heated final hours of the last session, was designed to prohibit unfair price discriminations favoring big purchasers and injuring little purchasers. These price discriminations, makers of the law asserted, were brought about in many instances through such indirect means as giving allowances for advertising to big buyers, and none to lesser buyers.

• • •

A Product Of Compromise

WHILE the intent of the measure was simple to state, the language necessary to weave it into law proved to be something else again. Privately the trade commission doesn't seem pleased and describes the law a bit doubtfully as the Robinson-Borah-Van Nuys-Patman act, because of the number of ideas necessary to compromise it through congress.

A group of "trade practice rules" issued recently by the commission for guidance of the cotton converting (export) industry referred directly to the act only once. In that instance it simply told the cotton converters, in effect, to read the law and let that be their guide.

Most of the rules were simply restatements of rules the commission has worked up over a long period, based on the Clayton anti-trust act, of which the Robinson-Borah-Van Nuys-Patman act merely was an expanding amendment.

To say trade is perplexed by the act is to put it mildly, judging from the comments at various informal business conferences at which it has been discussed.

• • •

Commission Remains Silent

SEVERAL such meetings have written their own interpretations of how the act should be administered, and these are leaking in the commission's lap from right and left.

Publicly the commissioners remain non-committal about these interpretations. They don't write much of anything. They just send Kelley, or call the puzzled business men in to see Kelley in the commission's seventh story Connecticut avenue office building.

By keeping its own interpretations as much as possible "off the record," the commission hopes to stave off any broad-front attack on the measure until recommendations for clarifying it can be put before congress next January.

Quietly the commissioners are shaping recommendations to be incorporated in their annual report which comes out in December.

America's Envoy to Spain Learned About Civil Strife As Writer of U. S. History

By JOHN SELBY

New York (AP)—Claude G. Bowers, United States ambassador to war-torn Spain, made his name as a writer by sandwiching chapters of American history between newspaper editorials.

While he was writing "The Tragic Era," Bowers was an editorial writer on the old New York World. He had an office with two desks; he combined two tasks and sacrificed his leisure to his writing.

His evenings were more or less free, but unfortunately old newspapers, his sources on the period after Lincoln, were in the New York public library and were open to consulation only during the day.

So every week day Bowers took the subway uptown, spent an hour thumbing old newsprint, made a stack of notes and then returned to his desk with a sandwich in his pocket.

Turned Democrat Early

Bowers was born at Westfield, Ind He lived there two weeks before his family moved to Indianapolis, where he was educated.

He had considered himself a Republican until in Shortridge high school he was delegated to represent his school in an oratorical contest

His subject was Hamilton; he read everything in Indianapolis on Hamilton, including the ten volumes of the Hamilton speeches and other papers.

He was surprised to find he had come to admire Jefferson more than Hamilton, and he has remained a Democrat since But he won the contest.

'Boy Editorial Writer'

Bowers was writing editorials for the old Indianapolis Sentinel in his 'teens; in fact, he was called the boy editorial writer.

He had read all the biographies of all the national heroes before he was 16; he used the facts but deplored that none of these works told him what the men themselves were like Washington and Lincoln were great and good, never bad boys at all Aaron Burr was very bad, never good at all.

In Terre Haute, while writing editorials for the Terre Haute Star, Bowers ran for congress in 1908, a bad year for Democrats, and was defeated.

Keynote At Houston

From 1911 to 1917 Bowers was secretary to Senator John K. Kern of Indiana, and learned Washington from cellar to attic.

In Fort Wayne, Ind., where he was editor of the Journal-Gazette, he wrote "The Party Battles of the Jackson Period," which attracted the attention of the New York World He came to New York in 1923.

In 1928 Bowers delivered the Jackson Day address in Washington and the keynote speech at the Democratic convention in Houston.

He was appointed Ambassador to Spain in 1933 by President Roosevelt While in Spain he has completed still another book dealing with Jefferson, "Jefferson in Power." It will be published (By Houghton Mifflin) in September.

Into History From Footnotes

His introduction to history came from an old "Eclectic History of the United States" in the Bowers home library He hated the history itself but liked the footnotes. His habit of painstaking research and careful recreation of the personalities of which he writes came, he believes, from his perusal of those footnotes.

His political oratory had a more human source His grandfather used to take him to hear the speeches in the days of bandwagons and rallies Oratory always has fascinated Bowers, his first book was called "Irish Orators," and was written in spare time while he was Kern's secretary.

New York newspaper men remember Bowers as they knew him on the World His voice, when he bade you enter his office, sounded rather brusque He rarely stood erect when shaking hands with a caller; when that rite was complete, he dropped at once into his chair and hoisted a leg to the desk in front of him.

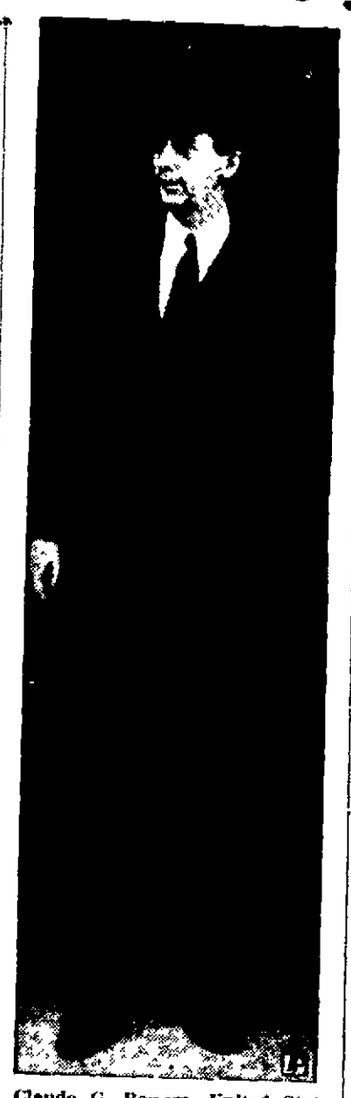

Cigar And Hat Traveled

He usually had his hat on and it traveled toward the back of his head as he talked He always had a cigar in his mouth, often unlit but usually pretty strong The cigar traveled from side to side in his mouth until, finally too frayed for comfort, it was flung to the floor

The lids dropped over his passive blue eyes He rarely gestured at all, and he spoke in a curious monotone very unlike his platform voice. He was slight of build

His vacations, when in New York, usually were spent in New England, rummaging around historic spots, storing up facts for future use

The new Bowers book will give the story of Jefferson's eight years as President, concluding with a chapter on his last years at Monticello.

Claude G. Bowers, United States ambassador to Spain, made his reputation as a historian while employed as a newspaper editorial writer.

Events Around The Empire State

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 3 (AP)—Raw milk was blamed by the State Health Department today for a recent outbreak of scarlet fever and sore throat in two neighboring communities in Schuyler and Steuben counties There were nine cases among adults and seven among children. The persons taken ill, the department said, received milk from the same source

The department added that the milk was obtained as an emergency supply from a producer whose dairy had not been inspected because he had been restricting his milk shipments to cheese factories.

"An investigation of the producer's farm revealed, the report continued, "that during May several members of his family suffered from sore throat which may have been scarlet fever, and had regularly milked cows and handled the milk utensils"

Beacon, N. Y., Aug 3 (AP)—A fire which could be seen for miles along the Hudson, halted service on the Mount Beacon inclined railway and stranded some 200 persons in the dancing casino on the summit The fire was discovered shortly before 2 a. m. yesterday but it was well past dawn before the last of the weary casino dancers reached the base of the mountain over a narrow footpath

The flames destroyed one of the railway cars and part of the wooden roadbed. Twenty-five persons, descending in one of the cars when they suddenly came upon the fire, leaped twelve feet from the tracks to the ground. None was injured

Dunkirk, N Y, Aug 3 (AP)—A natural gas well brought in on a farm in the town of Arkwright was estimated by drillers to be flowing at the rate of a million feet a day today. The well was brought in Saturday Fred Doherty, of the Doherty Gas Company which drilled the well, said the initial flow of 1,250,000 had dropped "a little".

Albany, N Y, Aug 3 (AP)—Mrs Melvin C. Eaton, wife of the Republican state chairman, will speak at a dinner of Albany county Republican women here tomorrow night Mrs Robert Low Bacon, vice chairman of the state committee, and Miss Natalie Couch, eastern director of women's activities, also will speak

More new freight cars were on order by Class I railroads of the United States on July 1, this year, than on any July 1 since 1929, the Association of American Railroads announces.

FLASHES OF LIFE SKETCHED IN BRIEF

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Surplus Foods Sold By State

Ithaca, N. Y., August 3 — New York was one of 36 states of the nation which during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1936, disposed of surpluses of agricultural commodities to the Federal Government for distribution for relief.

According to a report from Washington, purchases in New York included 315,744 bushels of fresh apples; 2,688,000 pounds of late carrots; 1,850,000 pounds of late onions, and 24 tons of late cabbage.

Total purchases of fruits and vegetables in all states under this program were: Apples, 1,348,255 bushels; dried beans, 1,200,000 pounds; dried peas, 7,502,040 pounds; citrus fruit, 288,532 boxes; dried prunes, 17,499,600 pounds; late carrots, 2,688,000 pounds; late onions, 5,933,450 pounds; cabbage, 4,259.76 tons, and early and intermediate onions, 24,116,050 pounds, obtained in Alabama, Arizona, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Florida, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Louisiana, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Mississippi, Missouri, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Utah, Virginia, Washington and West Virginia. Surplus eggs also were handled under this program in New York, Illinois, Massachusetts, Missouri, Texas, and Oklahoma, the report says.

The purchasing was conducted by the commodities purchase section, Agricultural Adjustment Administration, and the purchases financed from funds made available by Congress from customs receipts Distribution of the commodities was made by the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation.

Surplus dry skim milk, evaporated milk, butter, cheese, and wheat for flour milling, fig, turnips grapes, and cherries also were handled during the year under other programs.

Care was taken in each instance, the report says, to distribute these surpluses only to those who could not buy them, thus preventing them from conflicting with the commodities handled on the regular channels of trade.

Good Corn Crop

New York—The drouth hasn't bothered Mrs. Regina Jais, Fifth avenue's only penthouse farmer.

Fifteen floors above the street she expects to harvest a bumper corn crop raised in dirt on a terrace.

At least 30 ears of Golden Bantam sweet corn will be ready to eat next month.

Her radishes, scallions, string beans and peas already have gone to the dining table.

Ice For Hatching

Kinsham, Kas.—The July heat here was so bad a baby chick hatchery used ice to help hatch out a brood Hatching was not considered successful at temperature above 100 degrees, and when the mercury rose far above that level the hatchery turned off the heat and placed several large blocks of ice near the incubators. It worked.

Calling All Boys

Editor, Kingston Daily Freeman
Dear Sir:

Through the Kingston Daily Freeman I'd like to extend an invitation to all boys living near the Hasbrouck Park to come to the park and join us in the various interesting things we are doing there.

We have softball, baseball, volley ball, track practice, horseshoe pitching, tennis, and a bunch of other games which we play and enjoy.

Besides these games we have woodcraft, clay modelling, relief work, bird-house building, nature study, a library with over a hundred books and many other things to give us a good time.

Thanking you for your assistance,

I remain,
Respectfully
WALTER TATARZEWSKI,
Mayor of Hasbrouck Park.

STATE OF NEW YORK
DEPARTMENT OF STATE
ALBANY, July 16, 1936.

PURSUANT to the provisions of section one of article fourteen of the Constitution of the State of New York, and section sixty-eight of the Election Law, notice is hereby given that the following proposed amendments numbers one to eleven inclusive to the Constitution of the State of New York is referred to the legislature to be chosen at the next general election of Senators in this State to be held on the third day of November, nineteen hundred thirty-six.

EDWARD J. FLYNN,
Secretary of State.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NUMBER ONE

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION OF THE SENATE AND ASSEMBLY

PROPOSING AN AMENDMENT TO SECTION TWO OF ARTICLE ONE OF THE CONSTITUTION, IN RELATION TO WAIVER OF JURY TRIAL IN CERTAIN CASES

Section 1. Resolved, That section two of article one of the constitution be amended to read as follows:

§ 2. The trial by jury in all cases in which it has been heretofore used shall remain inviolate forever; but a jury trial may be waived in the manner to be prescribed by law by the parties in all civil cases [in the manner to be prescribed by law] and by the defendant in all criminal cases, except those in which the crime charged may be punishable by death.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NUMBER TWO

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION OF THE SENATE AND ASSEMBLY

PROPOSING AN AMENDMENT TO SECTION ONE OF ARTICLE TWO OF THE CONSTITUTION IN RELATION TO THE QUALIFICATION OF VOTERS

Section 1. Resolved, That section one of article two of the constitution be amended to read as follows:

§ 1. Every citizen of the age of twenty-one years, who shall have been a citizen for ninety days, and an inhabitant of this state one year next preceding an election, and for the last four months a resident of the county, or of a city which includes the whole county, and for the last thirty days a resident of the election district in which he or she may offer his or her vote, shall be entitled to vote at such election in the election district of which he or she shall at the time be a resident, and not elsewhere, for all officers that now are or hereafter may be elective by the people, and upon all questions which may be submitted to the vote of the people, provided however that a citizen by marriage shall have been an inhabitant of the United States for five years; and provided that in time of war no elector in the actual military service of the state, or of the United States, in the army or navy thereof, shall be deprived of his or her vote by reason of his or her absence from such election district; and the legislature shall have power to provide the manner in which and the time and place at which such absent electors may vote, and for the return and canvass of their votes. Notwithstanding the foregoing provisions, after January first, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-two, no person shall become entitled to vote by attaining majority, by naturalization or otherwise, unless such person is also able, except for physical disability, to read and write English; and suitable laws shall be passed by the legislature to enforce this provision.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NUMBER THREE

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION OF THE SENATE AND ASSEMBLY

PROPOSING AN AMENDMENT TO SECTION TWO OF ARTICLE THREE OF THE CONSTITUTION, IN RELATION TO PROVIDING FOR A TERM OF TWO YEARS FOR MEMBERS OF ASSEMBLY

Section 1. Resolved, That section two of article three of the constitution be amended to read as follows:

§ 2. The senate shall consist of fifty members, except as hereinafter provided. The senators elected in the year one thousand and eight hundred and ninety-five shall hold their offices for three years, and their successors shall be chosen for two years. The assembly shall consist of one hundred and fifty members [who shall be chosen for one year]. The assemblymen elected in the year one thousand nine hundred and thirty-eight, and their successors, shall be chosen for two years.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NUMBER FOUR

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION OF THE SENATE AND ASSEMBLY

PROPOSING AN AMENDMENT TO SECTION ONE OF ARTICLE FOUR OF THE CONSTITUTION, IN RELATION TO THE TERMS OF OFFICE OF THE GOVERNOR AND LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR

Section 1. Resolved, That section one of article four of the constitution be amended to read as follows:

§ 1. The executive power shall be vested in [a] the governor, who shall hold his office for [two] four years; [a] the lieutenant-governor shall be chosen at the same time, and for the same term. The governor and lieutenant-governor [elected next preceding the time when this section shall take effect, shall hold office until and including the thirty-first day of December, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-six, and their successors shall be] chosen at the general election in nineteen hundred and thirty-six [that year] shall hold office until and including the thirty-first day of December, nineteen hundred and thirty-eight. Their successors shall be chosen at the general election held in that year and each fourth year thereafter.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NUMBER FIVE

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION OF THE SENATE AND ASSEMBLY

PROPOSING AN AMENDMENT TO SECTION FOUR OF ARTICLE FIVE OF THE CONSTITUTION, IN RELATION TO THE HEAD OF THE DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE AND MARKETS IN THE STATE GOVERNMENT

Section 1. Resolved, That section four of article five of the constitution be amended to read as follows:

§ 4. The head of the executive department shall be the governor. The head of the department of audit and control shall be the comptroller and of the department of law, the attorney-general. The head of the department of education shall be the regents of the university of the state of New York, who shall appoint and at pleasure remove a commissioner of education to be the chief administrative officer of the department. [The head of the department of agriculture and markets shall be appointed in a manner to be prescribed by law.] Except as otherwise provided in this constitution, the heads of all other departments and members of all boards and commissions mentioned in this article, excepting temporary commissions for special purposes, shall be appointed by the governor by and with the advice and consent of the senate and may be removed by the governor, in a manner to be prescribed by law.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NUMBER SIX

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION OF THE SENATE AND ASSEMBLY

PROPOSING AN AMENDMENT TO SECTION FIFTEEN OF ARTICLE SIX OF THE CONSTITUTION, IN RELATION TO PRESCRIBING THE JURISDICTION AND POWERS OF THE CITY COURT OF THE CITY OF NEW YORK

Section 1. Resolved, That section fifteen of article six of the constitution be amended to read as follows:

Section 15. The city court of the city of New York is continued, and, from and after the first day of January in the second year following the adoption of this article, it shall have the same jurisdiction and power throughout the city of New York, under the name of the city court of the city of New York, as it now possesses within the [county] counties of New York, [and the county of] Bronx, Kings, Queens and Richmond and original jurisdiction concurrent with the supreme court in actions for the recovery of money only in which the complaint demands judgment for a sum not exceeding [three] five thousand dollars, and interest, and in actions of replevin, foreclosure of mechanic's liens and liens on personal property where the property involved does not exceed in value the sum of [three] five thousand dollars. Its jurisdiction to enter judgment upon a counterclaim shall be unlimited. It shall consist of the justices then in office, who shall continue to be justices of the court for the remainder of the terms for which they severally were elected or appointed [,] [and the additional justices to be elected as provided in this section.] The justices who were elected or appointed as justices of the city court of the city of New York shall be paid the compensation now fixed by law for such justices until the expiration of the terms for which they were respectively elected or appointed. [Until] Nine of their successors shall reside in and shall be [elected] chosen by the electors of the county of New York, [and two] four shall reside in and shall be chosen by the electors of the county of Bronx, [and hold office for ten years. There shall also be] five additional justices, two of whom shall reside in and shall be chosen by the electors [in] of the county of Kings, three shall reside in and shall be chosen by the electors of the county of Queens, and one [of whom] shall reside in and shall be chosen by the electors of the county of Richmond [each of the counties of New York, Bronx and Queens, and all of whom shall be elected at the first general election following the adoption of this article,] and they and their successors, who shall be chosen in like manner, shall hold office for ten years. [Until the legislature shall otherwise provide, the county judge and surrogate of Richmond county shall perform in said county the duties of a justice of the city court of the city of New York and also the duties of a justice of the supreme court at chambers or out of court.] The legislature may in its discretion authorize the election of one or more additional justices of the city court in any county within the city of New York. The justices hereafter elected shall receive from the city of New York such compensation as may be fixed by law

The justices of the city court of the city of New York shall choose one of their number to be the presiding justice thereof, who shall act as such during his term of office, and who shall be charged with the general administration of the court and the assignment of the justices to hold the terms thereof, subject to such regulations as the presiding justices of the appellate divisions of the supreme court in the first and second departments shall from time to time prescribe. The justices of said city court shall have power to appoint and remove a chief clerk of the court, and one or more deputy clerks in each county, who shall keep their respective office or offices at a place or places to be designated by the court, and whose duties shall be regulated and supervised by the presiding justice of the court.

All civil actions or proceedings pending on said first day of January in the county courts of the counties of Kings, Bronx, Queens and Richmond, respectively, are hereby transferred to the city court of the city of New York for hearing and determination at terms held within the counties in which the same shall be pending, and, for the purpose only of such hearing and determination and the enforcement of the judgments rendered thereon, said city court shall have and exercise the equity jurisdiction previously vested in the respective county courts from which such cases are so transferred but not otherwise. [Until the legislature shall otherwise provide, the clerk of the city court of the city of New York and the chief clerk of the county court in each of the counties of Kings, Bronx, Queens and Richmond, shall severally act within his county as a deputy clerk of the city court of the city of New York, and the]

The presiding justices of the appellate divisions of the first and second departments, respectively, may by order, whenever, in their judgment, the public interest demands it and irrespective of the amount demanded in the complaint, transfer from the supreme court, within their respective departments, any cause or proceeding therein pending, to the respective divisions of the city court of the city of New York, within their department, for determination. Appeals from such determination may be taken to the appellate division in the same manner as if it were an appeal from a determination of the supreme court. The presiding justice of the court shall make such rules and regulations respecting the clerk's offices, the assignment of secretaries to the justices, court clerks, stenographers, interpreters and other attendants and the distribution of the business of the court in the said several counties as from time to time may be expedient, subject to such general regulations as the presiding justices of the appellate divisions of the first and second departments shall from time to time prescribe. Appeals from the city court of the city of New York except as herein above stated shall be taken to the appellate term for the appropriate department or otherwise as may be prescribed by law.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NUMBER SEVEN

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION OF THE SENATE AND ASSEMBLY

PROPOSING AN AMENDMENT TO SECTION EIGHTEEN OF ARTICLE SIX OF THE CONSTITUTION, IN RELATION TO PRESCRIBING THE JURISDICTION AND POWERS OF THE MUNICIPAL COURT OF THE CITY OF NEW YORK

Section 18. The municipal court of the city of New York is continued and shall have and exercise the same jurisdiction and powers throughout the city of New York as it now possesses and such additional jurisdiction and powers as the legislature, from time to time, hereafter may prescribe. Inferior local courts of civil and criminal jurisdiction may be established by the legislature, but no such inferior local court which has been created since the first day of January, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five, or is hereafter created shall be a court of record. All inferior local courts now or hereafter established may be regulated or discontinued by the legislature. The legislature shall not hereafter confer upon any inferior or local court of its creation any equity jurisdiction or any greater jurisdiction in other respects than is conferred upon county courts by or under this article; but it may provide that the territorial jurisdiction in civil cases of any inferior or local court now existing or hereafter established in any city or of justices of the peace in cities shall extend throughout the county or counties in which such city may be located. Courts of special sessions and inferior local courts of similar character shall have such jurisdiction of offenses of the grade of misdemeanors as may be prescribed by law, and the legislature may authorize them to try such offenses without a jury.

The legislature may establish children's courts, and courts of domestic relations, as separate courts, or as parts of existing courts or courts hereafter to be created, and may confer upon them such jurisdiction as may be necessary for the correction, protection, guardianship and disposition of delinquent, neglected or dependent minors, and for the punishment and correction of adults responsible for or contributing to such delinquency, neglect or dependency, and to compel the support of a wife, child, or poor relative by persons legally chargeable therewith who abandon or neglect to support any of them. In conferring such jurisdiction the legislature shall provide that whenever a child is committed to an institution or is placed in the custody of any person by parole, placing out, adoption, or guardianship, it shall be so committed or placed, when practicable, to an institution governed by persons, or in the custody of a person, of the same religious persuasion as the child. In the exercise of such jurisdiction such courts may hear and determine such causes with or without a jury, except those involving a felony.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NUMBER EIGHT

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION OF THE SENATE AND ASSEMBLY

PROPOSING AN AMENDMENT TO ARTICLE EIGHT OF THE CONSTITUTION, IN RELATION TO THE LIMITATION OF INDEBTEDNESS OF COUNTIES, CITIES, TOWNS AND VILLAGES

Section 1. Resolved, That article eight of the constitution be amended by adding a new section to follow ten-a, to be section ten-b, to read as follows:

§ 10-b. Notwithstanding any of the limitations prescribed by section ten of this article, debts incurred by any county, city, town or village after January first, nineteen hundred thirty-eight, for public improvements in the construction, the acquisition (whether by purchase or by condemnation) and for the equipment of works, structures, poles, lines, conduits, mains, systems and water power to be used in the manufacture, converting, transportation and furnishing of gas (whether natural or manufactured or a mixture of both) for light, heat and power and in the generation, furnishing and transmission of electricity for light, heat and power, which yield to any such county, city, town or village current net revenue, after making any necessary allowance for repairs and maintenance, shall not be included in computing the debt limit of any such county, city, town or village, for the purpose of ascertaining the power of any such county, city, town or village to become otherwise indebted.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NUMBER NINE

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION OF THE SENATE AND ASSEMBLY

PROPOSING AN AMENDMENT TO SECTION ONE OF ARTICLE TEN OF THE CONSTITUTION, IN RELATION TO THE ELIGIBILITY OF SHERIFFS TO SUCCEED THEMSELVES

Section 1. Resolved, That section one of article ten of the constitution be amended to read as follows:

§ 1. Sheriffs, clerks of counties, district attorneys and registers in counties having registers, shall be chosen by the electors of the respective counties, once in every three years and as often as vacancies shall happen, except in the counties of New York and Kings, and in counties whose boundaries are the same as those of a city, where such officers shall be chosen by the electors once in every two or four years as the legislature shall direct. Sheriffs shall hold no other office, and be ineligible for the next term after the termination of their offices[.] They may be required by law to renew their security, from time to time; and in default of giving such new security, their offices shall be deemed vacant. But the county shall never be made responsible for the acts of the sheriff. The governor may remove any officer, in this section mentioned, within the term for which he shall have been elected; giving to such officer a copy of the charges against him, and an opportunity of being heard in his defense.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NUMBER TEN

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION OF THE SENATE AND ASSEMBLY

PROPOSING AN AMENDMENT TO SECTION ONE OF ARTICLE TEN OF THE CONSTITUTION, IN RELATION TO THE ELIGIBILITY OF SHERIFFS TO SUCCEED THEMSELVES

Section 1. Resolved, That section one of article ten of the constitution be amended to read as follows:

§ 1. Except in counties in the city of New York, sheriffs, clerks of counties, district attorneys, and registers in counties having registers, shall be chosen by the electors of the respective counties, once in every three years and as often as vacancies shall happen. Sheriffs shall hold no other office [and be ineligible for the next term after the termination of their offices]. They may be required by law to renew their security, from time to time; and in default of giving such new security, their offices shall be deemed vacant. But the county shall never be made responsible for the acts of the sheriff. The governor may remove any officer, hereinbefore in this section mentioned, within the term for which he shall have been elected; giving to such officer a copy of the charges against him, and an opportunity of being heard in his defense. In each county in the city of New York a district attorney shall be chosen by the electors once in every two or four years as the legislature shall direct and shall be subject to removal by the governor within the term for which he shall have been elected; giving to such officer a copy of the charges against him, and an opportunity of being heard in his defense. The clerks of said counties shall be appointed, and be subject to removal by the appellate division of the supreme court in the judicial department in which the respective counties are located. In addition to their powers and duties as clerks of the supreme court, they shall have power to select, draw, summon and empanel grand and petit jurors in the manner and under the conditions now or hereafter prescribed by law, and shall have such other powers and duties as shall be prescribed from time to time by local law.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NUMBER ELEVEN

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION OF THE SENATE AND ASSEMBLY

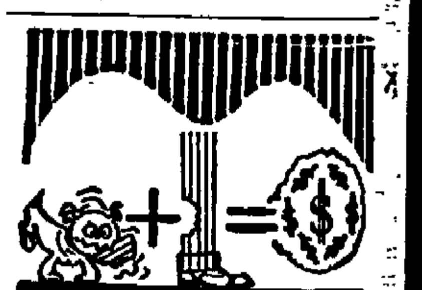

PROPOSING AN AMENDMENT TO ARTICLE FOURTEEN OF THE CONSTITUTION, IN RELATION TO AMENDMENTS TO THE CONSTITUTION BY PETITION OF THE PEOPLE

Section 1. Resolved, That article fourteen of the constitution be hereby amended by inserting therein three new sections, to be sections four, five and six, to read, respectively, as follows:

§ 4. In addition to the methods provided in the preceding sections of this article for amendments to the constitution, the people themselves may by petition propose any amendment or amendments to the constitution other than an amendment restricting the power of taxation of the state or of its political subdivisions. Such petition shall be signed by qualified electors at least equal in number to ten per centum of the number who voted in the state at the last election for governor before the petition is filed, provided that in counting the required number of such signatures not more than one-third of such required number shall be counted from any one county and not more than one-half from one city. Such petition may be in several parts, each of which shall contain the full text of the proposed amendment or amendments.

§ 5. Such petition or the several parts thereof shall be filed with the secretary of state who shall submit the amendment or amendments contained in such petition to the people for approval at a general election held not earlier than eight months subsequent to the filing of the petition upon such notice and in such manner as is now, or may hereafter be prescribed by the legislature with reference to proposed amendments originating in the legislature, except that every amendment proposed by petition of the people shall be described as "A proposed amendment of the constitution instituted by petition." If the people shall approve such amendment or amendments by the majority of the electors voting thereon, such amendment or amendments shall become a part of the constitution from and after the first day of January next after such approval. If provisions of two or more constitutional amendments approved by the people are in conflict, the provisions of the measure receiving the largest number of affirmative votes at such election shall prevail.

§ 6. The legislature shall by general law provide proper safeguards and limitations upon the procedure established by the two preceding sections but not inconsistent therewith.

Playwright is Given Subpoena in Astor Case at Los Angeles

Los Angeles, Aug. 3 (AP).—Mystery enveloping the name "George Kaufman" in the Mary Astor child custody case was lifted today by a subpoena calling the playwright of the name to tell of his acquaintance with the patrician screen beauty.

Also in prospect with resumption of the sensational court hearing was the introduction of a diary the actress is said to have filled with intimate secrets.

Miss Astor herself was assigned another interlude in the witness chair, to be questioned by attorneys for her divorced husband, Dr. Franklyn Thorpe, from whom she seeks full custody of their four-year-old daughter, Marylyn. She has testified he was a rough and inept father.

Kaufman was found by process servers at Catalena Island Saturday as he was about to sail with Producer Irving Thalberg and Actress Norma Shearer on their yacht. Dr. Thorpe's chief counsel, Joseph Anderson, said the playwright would be questioned about his acquaintance with Miss Astor.

As for the diary, Dr. Thorpe in two affidavits already has filed excerpts he said were taken from it, mentioning in endearing terms a man identified only as "George".

"I love George and the least I can do is save him from a messy scandal," the affidavit quoted a "written statement," made in February, 1935, two months before the Thorpe's divorce.

Another quoted passage read: "I wanted to be able to see George for the rest of his stay here without being upset—looking like hell—I wanted to have the last few times of completely enjoying him."

If Miss Astor's answers on the witness stand provide the opportunity, said Anderson, the diary will be introduced.

The name "George Kaufman" was introduced into the hearing last week when Nursemaid Nellie Richardson, who testified four women at various times had stayed overnight in Dr. Thorpe's home since Miss Astor left, was asked by Anderson:

"Do you know George Kaufman?"

Miss Richardson said she had heard the name. Miss Astor's counsel objected to the query as "an attempt to scandalize innocent persons and immaterial and beside the point." "George Kaufman" was not further identified.

As the time for resumption of the hearing (1 p. m. eastern standard time) neared, executives at the actress' studio said they were trying to get an agreement for continuance to save a $50,000 delay in production of a movie.

Night sessions were held last week to permit Miss Astor to work in the film during the day.

Seeking guidance for a decision in the bitterly-fought case, in which Miss Astor and Dr. Thorpe accuse each other of unfitness to care for their child, Superior Judge Goodwin J. Knight interviewed little Marylyn Saturday.

Her patents and newspapermen were present. Marylyn said she loved her "moms" and her "pops".

Kiwanis Boys Camp Opens Tuesday

Thirty-five boys will leave the Y. M. C. A. tomorrow at 2:30 o'clock for a week's outing at Camp Preumaker, the Kingston Y. M. C. A. camp, which will be taken over for a week by the Kingston Kiwanis Club. The club is retaining the regular "Y" camp staff to operate a program such as the boys had at the regular "Y" camp, which closes its four weeks' season today.

The boys who are to be guests of the Kiwanis Club will meet at the "Y" tomorrow from which place the Kiwanians will provide transportation to the camp.

Thursday of this week the Kiwanians will visit the boys at the camp being there for supper, games in the early evening and the evening campfire.

This project makes the second year that the Kiwanis Club has operated a camp for a group of boys, the one last year being so successful that the men concluded to repeat the camp again this year. Boys who were certainly appreciative of their outing and those enrolled for this year's camp are looking forward to a real happy time.

Owens Wins Olympic 100-Meters Today, Metcalfe Finishes Second

Berlin, Aug. 3 (AP)—Jesse Owens, Ohio State negro sprinter, won the Olympic 100-meter championship today.

It was the Buckeye Bullet's first triumph in his try for three Olympic gold medals. Owens also is entered in the 200-meter event and the broad jump.

Owens broke fast and led after the first 10 meters, beating his fellow countryman, Ralph Metcalfe, Chicago negro, by one yard and a half.

Metcalfe was runner up for the second straight Olympiad. In 1932 at Los Angeles he was beaten by virtually an eye-lash by Eddie Tolan of Detroit.

Martin Osendarp of Holland started well and prevented the American team from sweeping the event as he took third. Frank Wykoff of Carpenteria, Calif., three-time Olympian, was fourth.

Miss Stephens Wins

Also, clocked in 11.4 seconds, Helen Stephens of Fulton, Mo., lowered the world record today in winning her heat in the opening trials of the Olympic 100-meter spring for women.

Miss Stephens' time eclipsed the listed world standard of 11.8 seconds set by Stella Walsh of Poland in 1933 and the Olympic record of 11.9 set by Miss Walsh at Los Angeles in 1932.

On a supposedly slow track and with a medium following wind, Miss Stephens spread-eagled all opposition. On the basis of the decision earlier in the day that threw out Jesse Owens' 10.2 performance in the men's 100-meter quarter-finals yesterday, it appeared questionable whether the American girl's mark would be accepted though no definite decision yet had been made.

Canada's Mildred Dolson was second, nearly 10 meters back of the Missouri flier, with three others trailing still further to the rear.

Stella Walsh won the third heat in 12.05 seconds.

Hein Betters Record

Karl Hein of Germany bettered the Olympic record with a throw of 56.49 meters, 185 feet 4 1-16 inches during the finals of the hammer throw competition. It was the second time today Matt McGrath's 24-year-old record of 179 feet 8 4-10 inches was surpassed.

Previously Germany's Erwin Blask hurled the weight 180 feet 6 31-32 inches.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By CLAUDE E. JAGGER

New York, Aug. 3 (AP)—A few issues, including American Telephone, Gulf States Steel and Johns-Manville, bounced up 2 to 3 points or so in the stock market today, lending steadiness to the rest of the list.

The late tone was steady. Transfers approximated 1,000,000 shares.

Tilting forward fractions to a point or more were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, U. S. Pipe & Foundry, Boeing, Case, Western Union, Anaconda, Socony-Vacuum, Westinghouse, DuPont, U. S. Rubber Preferred and Loew's.

Modest advances were turned in by Pennsylvania, Santa Fe, Union Pacific and Southern Pacific. Quiet steadiness prevailed in the utilities.

Weeps Bitterly.

Bayonne, N. J., Aug. 3 (AP)—Seventeen-year-old Gladys MacKnight wept bitterly today, her attorney said, because she could not leave her cell to attend the funeral of her mother, whom she is accused of slaying. R. Lewis Kennedy, the attorney, described the girl who Police Chief Cornelius J. O'Neill said confessed she hacked her mother to death while her sweetheart, Donald Wichtman, 16, cried "Hit her again," as distraught and sleepless. Police described her as cold and steel-nerved. Gladys said she was "awfully sorry for mother and father too." Kennedy declared after a three hour jail conference with her.

England might get along better in international relations if it didn't spend so much time and energy trying to find a wife for King Edward.

Local Death Record

A first month's mind Mass will be offered for the repose of the soul of Mary A. Redden on Wednesday morning, August 5, at St. Mary's Church at 7 o'clock.

Nanette E. Richard died at her home, 284 Main street on Sunday afternoon. The remains are at the parlors of A. Carr and Son, awaiting funeral arrangements.

Woodrow Lewis Diehl, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Diehl, of 67 Abruyn street, died Saturday afternoon and was buried this morning from the Henry J. Bruck Home for Funerals, 27 Smith avenue. The burial service took place at the grave in St. Peter's cemetery.

Funeral services were held Saturday afternoon at the Fresh Pond Crematory, Middle Village, L. I., for Fred Ostermann, a retired jeweler of Brooklyn, N. Y. Mr. Ostermann's death occurred in this city following a brief illness. He had been visiting friends here when he was suddenly stricken early last week. His body was taken to Brooklyn by the Henry J. Bruck funeral establishment of 27 Smith avenue.

Mrs. Marie Lehner, widow of Joseph Lehner, died at her home in West Hurley on Saturday. She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Mathilda Loeffler and Mrs. Josephine Stenernagel. The funeral will be held from the late home on Tuesday morning at 9:45 a. m., and from St. John's Church, Stony Hollow, at 10 o'clock, where a high Mass of requiem will be offered for the repose of her soul. Interment will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

William M. King of 25 Holmes street, Poughkeepsie, formerly of Kingston, died at his residence there aged 60 years. The funeral will be held from the late home on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. He was for 20 years with the J. W. Dimmick Carpet Co. in the western part of the state. He had lived in Poughkeepsie for the past 24 years and was in the grocery business. He was a member of Kingston Lodge, No. 10, F. and A. M. and of the Trinity M. E. Church in Poughkeepsie. Interment will be in the Rosendale Plains cemetery.

The funeral of Miss Mary Lundy, who died on Thursday, was held from her late home in Esopus this morning at 9:30 and from the Church of the Sacred Heart at 10 o'clock where a high Mass of requiem was offered for the repose of her soul by the Rev. George Beinlein, C. SS. R. Responses to the Mass were sung by the Student's Choir of Mount St. Alphonsus. The funeral was large with a profusion of flowers, attesting to the esteem in which the deceased was held. On Sunday evening the Altar Society, of which the deceased was a member, met under the direction of Father Beinlien and recited the rosary. The bearers were James Murphy, James Hart, John Kearney and Edward Davey. Interment was in the family plot in St. Mary's cemetery.

The funeral of Peter J. Spotz, who died on Friday last following an illness of but two days was held this morning from the late home, 258 Hasbrouck avenue, at 9 o'clock, thence to St. Mary's Church where at 9:30 a high Mass of requiem was offered for the repose of his soul by the Rev. William H. Kennedy. Seated within the chancel was the Rev. Francis P. Borowski, pastor of Immaculate Conception Church. Many and beautiful were the floral offerings from a host of sorrowing relatives and friend, together with spiritual bouquets in the form of Mass cards which were placed upon the casket. Sunday evening at 7 o'clock members of The Freeman Publishing Company met and marched in a body to the late home to pay their last respects to the one whom in life was held in the highest esteem by all. At 8 o'clock the Holy Name Society led by the Rev. William H. Kennedy visited the home and recited the Rosary for their departed member. St. Mary's children's choir augmented by the voice of Martin Kelly sang the responses during the Mass and at the offertory Mr. Kelly sang "O Salutaris," and at the conclusion of the Mass rendered "Ave Maria." A delegation of the Holy Name Society met at the church and acted as an honorary escort. The casket bearers, all employes of The Freeman, were James E. Connelly, Aloysius Perry, Edward J. Perry, George Reis, Charles Diers, Clarence Uhl, Lawrence Conroy and Bernard Leahy. The cortege was accompanied to St. Mary's Cemetery by the Very Rev. John J. Stanley, who pronounced the final absolution at the grave as the body was laid to rest in the family plot.

Ten Minute Alibi at the New Barn

The Group Players, for their sixth week's presentation, are offering another murder mystery, which should prove a rare treat for all who enjoy tricky and tense situations. Ten Minute Alibi, by Mr. Armstrong, was a grand success on Broadway and also as a picture.

Returning to the stage of the New Barn this week will be Rachel Minciotti, who scored such admirable success in "The Warrior's Husband" and "Three Cornered Moon." Among the new faces to be seen this week will be Edward Gilgin, Henry Lascoe and Gordon Casper.

The play will be presented from Tuesday evening, August 4, to Sunday evening, August 9, inclusive.

Boise, Idaho, Aug. 3 (AP)—Governor C. Ben Ross signed a proclamation today placing Clearwater county—scene of a North Idaho lumbermen's strike—under martial law.

Percy Grainger, the Australian pianist, plays the guitar and the saxophone, among many other instruments.

John R. Monroe Dead, Was Active In Church, Civil Life

John R. Monroe, for years prominently identified with the church and civic life of Kingston, died Saturday evening at his home, 291 West Chestnut street, after a long illness. Funeral services will be held on Tuesday afternoon in the Rondout Presbyterian Church at 2 o'clock with burial in the Fair View Cemetery at Stone Ridge. Mr. Monroe is survived by his wife, who was the former Miss Elizabeth Secor; one son, Attorney Dorr E. Monroe, of this city; two daughters, Mrs. N LeVan Haver, of Kingston, and Mrs. Earl A. Benedict, of Cobleskill; two grandchildren, Barbara Haver and Marilyn Benedict, and two brothers, LeRoy Monroe of Spokane, Washington, and George Monroe of Brooklyn.

When a young man Mr. Monroe was connected with the late Captain Jacob Snyder in business at High Falls, and for a period of about 15 years he was connected with the Rosendale Cement Company, and during the later years of his life was auditor for the S. D. Coykendall Estate.

Mr. Monroe for a number of years served as an officer in The Clove Church at High Falls, and later when he became a resident of Port Ewen was actively identified with the Port Ewen Reformed Church serving the church as an elder and also as superintendent of the Sunday school.

About 22 years ago Mr. Monroe and his family removed to this city, making his home on West Chestnut street, and affiliating himself with the Rondout Presbyterian Church where at the time of his death he was serving as an elder and clerk of the church session. During the many years he was active in the Presbyterian Church he became widely known throughout the Hudson valley for his activities in church work, and attended many sessions of the Presbytery of the North River. For a number of years he served efficiently as superintendent of the Sunday school.

In the more than 100 years that the Rondout Presbyterian Church has been established, there were few more loyal and faithful members than Mr. Monroe. During the past twenty years he could always be found in attendance at all of the sessions of the Sunday school and church. He was also a faithful member and attendant of the mid-week prayer services.

Mr. Monroe was a man of Christian character and during his life personified the highest type of Christian manhood. He was a man of genial personality, and made and kept friends easily. Aside from his business his greatest interest was in his church, and for years he had been prominently identified with every church activity.

In the business world he was equally well known and brought to his work his intense and active interest, and was held in high esteem not only by his fellow employes but by his employers.

Mr. Monroe was stricken with the illness that caused his death nearly two years ago and since that time had been confined to his bed. During the many months that he was confined to his bed he bore his suffering with Christian fortitude.

In the death of Mr. Monroe the city has lost one of the finest type of citizens and the church work his lost one of its most active and loyal members.

ST. JOSEPH'S HOLY NAME PICNIC NEXT SUNDAY

Plans are going forward for the annual picnic and outing of St. Joseph's Holy Name Society, to be held next Sunday at Herman's Grove, on the Rosendale road. It is expected a large crowd will be on hand to enjoy the affair. There will be plenty of room for parking autos. Free transportation to and from the picnic grounds will be afforded families not owning cars. Buses will leave St. Joseph's school at 11 a. m. and 1 p. m., returning to the city late in the afternoon. Families wishing to bring their own lunch may do so. Refreshments will be on sale throughout the day.

UTICA MAN FINED $50 ON RECKLESS DRIVING CHARGE

George Benn, 22, a chauffeur, whose home is in Utica, was arrested at Marlborough Saturday by Trooper Nolan on a charge of reckless driving.

Benn was arraigned before Justice John Rusk, Jr., who sentenced him to pay a fine of $50, or spend 50 days in the Ulster County Jail. In default of the fine he was committed to jail.

"Will Return Home Soon"

Syracuse, N. Y., Aug. 3 (AP).—Mrs. William H. Gott, mother of the former Bertha Gott, estranged wife of Al Smith, Jr., said today that her daughter "will return home soon." She said her daughter moved out of her New York apartment today and that she didn't know where she would be "for a few days." She said she could not confirm a report that her daughter would start proceedings for a separation from her husband. Mrs. Gott intimated that her daughter would make Syracuse her home but didn't know "exactly when."

Hubbell Stops Pirates With Four Hits to Give Giants 3-2 Victory

(By The Associated Press)

If the Chicago Cubs don't snap out of their current hitting slump, there will be no World's Series change jingling in the pockets of Charley Grimm and company this fall.

Their great pitching brigade is still the best in the big-time, but no mound staff can be expected to hold up under the weak support coming from a lineup which, outside of Frank Demaree, has not been hitting its individual weight for days.

As a result of this batting drouth alone, the Cubs blew a three-game lead in the National League last week, all but lost first place to the St. Louis Cardinals, and wound up on the short end in both sides of a doubleheader with the Bees yesterday.

With the Gas House Gang still tough to beat, and the revived New York Giants traveling at their hottest pace of the season, the Cub outlook has changed considerably for the worse in the last two weeks.

Both the Cards and Giants moved up yesterday, while the Cubs were bowing 4-3 and 3-2, despite the fine pitching performances of Bill Lee and Curt Davis in the opener and Lon Warneke in the nightcap.

Their inability to hit in the clinch proved the margin of defeat for the Cubs, and Danny MacFayden toughened up on them in the first game, and Ben Cantwell held them in check in the nightcap.

The Cards pulled up to a bare two percentage points off the pace by walloping the Phillies 13-4 and 11-8. Pepper Martin's bat did the most damage in the first game, and old George Earnshaw and Dizzy Dean bore down in the pinches of the nightcap.

Carl Hubbell stopped the Pirates with four hits to give the Giants a 3-2 victory. The Dodgers split with the Cincinnati Reds, taking the nightcap 5-2 after being nosed out 4-3 in the opener.

The Yankees and Indians, ending their "crucial" American League series, got nowhere in 16 innings, winding up in a 4-all deadlock because of darkness.

The White Sox regained the form that carried them into the first division and took over the third place by belting the Boston Red Sox in both ends of a doubleheader, dropping the gold-plated crew from the Hub City into the second division.

Finally ending their seven-game losing streak—longest of the season—Pete Appleton pitched the Senators to a 5-3 edge over the Tigers, with the aid of a three-run scoring spree in the ninth. The Browns hit four homers and split with the Athletics, winning the opener 6-1. Then losing 7-3.

Yesterday's STARS

(By The Associated Press)

Carl Hubbell, Giants—Limited Pirates to four hits.

Pete Appleton, Senators—Defeated Tigers with eight hits.

Danny MacFayden and Ben Cantwell, Bees—Pitched doubleheader win over Cubs.

Luke Sewell and Zeke Bonura, White Sox—Former's four singles drove in three runs in doubleheader opener victory; Bonura's double and three singles batted in two in nightcap.

Pat Malone, Yanks, and Joe Vosmik, Indians—Former's seven-inning relief pitching, and latter's single saved a tie for each club.

Elon Hogsett, Browns, and Pooch Puccinelli, Athletics—Former won doubleheader opener with nine-hit pitching; latter drove in three runs in nightcap with homer and two singles.

Benny Fred, Reds, and Jim Jordan, Dodgers—Former pitched tight ball for seven innings and drove in one run in doubleheader opener win; Jordan had double and three singles in nightcap.

Pepper Martin and George Earnshaw, Cardinals—Former's homer and two singles drove in four runs in opener; latter held Phillies for seven innings and drove in three runs in nightcap.

Patented Seven-Shot Carbine

The seven-shot carbine introduced into the United States Army was patented in 1860 by Christopher M. Spencer and was made by the Spencer Repeating Arms Co., Boston, Mass. It was extensively used during the Civil war. A caliber .56, rimfire, seven-shot rifle which loaded through a trap in the butt plate. The loading was very slow until the appearance of the Blakeslee's patent cartridge box containing 10 tin tubes each holding seven cartridges, each tube loadable as a unit. This method was in use during the last two years of the war.

Patrick Henry Immortal

Patrick Henry was born May 29, 1736. He served five terms as governor of Virginia and in later life was offered the positions of secretary of the treasury and chief justice, but declined them both. He died in 1799. He is immortal in American history for his stirring words: "I know not what course others may take, but as for me, give me liberty or give me death."

Tackles Tony —By Pap

Lou Ambers mopped the perspiration from his brow, took a deep breath and told why he thought he would be wearing the lightweight crown after his bout with Tony Canzoneri.

"Tony is a grand little fighter, one of the best of his weight to show in recent years, but even Tony can't go on forever. The record book says that Tony was born in 1905 . . . That makes me exactly eight years younger than he. I have improved in the last year while the wear and tear of all of his fights must have taken something from him, something the added experience at this stage of his career cannot offset.

"Sure, he gave me a boxing lesson when we fought for the title a little over a year ago. But he won't do it again. I learned a lot from Tony that evening in May ,and plenty about him, too. I don't mind being the short-ender in this fight . . . not after the way favorites have been taking it on the chin this year."

"Buck Fever" Beat Him.

Ambers has been preparing himself for his shot at Canzoneri's title at Dr. Bier's camp in Pompton Lakes, N. J., and makes it clear that he intends to out-hustle the champion when they meet. He has won a dozen fights since he was decisively beaten by Canzoneri. His victory over Frankie Klick put him back in the running for the championship.

Against Canzoneri last year Ambers could not seem to forget that he was facing the idol of his early boxing days and the result was that Lou suffered a bad case of "buck fever" and showed none of the whirlwind attack for which he is famous. But Lou has gotten over all that, or, at least, so he claims.

"This time Tony will be just another fighter, and one that I feel sure I can lick," Lou says.

"And don't think that tough fight Tony had with Jimmy McLarnin is going to make him any tougher for me," the challenger goes on. "A fellow doesn't recover as quickly after the years pile up as he did when he was a kid.

"Canzoneri Won't Last."

"What I saw of Canzoneri in that fight convinced me that he is just about ready to be taken. He was dog-tired at the end of ten rounds, so how do you think he will be able to carry on for 15 at the fast clip at which I am going to take him along?"

We weren't answering questions—just listening. So we let Ambers continue.

"I have a hunch that I will knock Tony out this time. Now, don't laugh—I'm serious about it. In half of the last dozen fights I've had I've knocked out my opponents. That proves I've developed a bit of a punch, I guess."

One of Ambers' knockout victims was the late Tony Scarpati. Tony died after his head struck the floor when Lou floored him in the seventh round of their contest. Ambers was cleared but in a moment of regret immediately following the unfortunate accident announced that he was quitting the ring for good. In time he got over that feeling and appeared at a show for the benefit of Scarpati's family. After a brief rest he resumed his climb to the spot where he earned another chance at the lightweight title.

OWENS CHECKS SPEED 20 YARDS FROM FINISH BUT RUNS 100 METERS IN 10.2

By GALE TALBOT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Berlin, Aug. 3 (AP).—But for the fact that he checked his speed 20 yards from the finish, Jesse Owens had a sneaking feeling today he might have given his first Olympic audience a real thrill.

He peeled off the 100 meters yesterday in the second round eliminations in 10.2, a tenth of a second under the world record, but he couldn't help being disappointed over his failure to give it the gun right down to the finish.

He promised he would in the semi-finals and finals today.

"I never was more surprised in my life than when they announced that time," he said. "If I had known I was running that fast, I sure would have tried to hang up 10.1. The only thing, if I had, all the timers would probably have thrown away their watches and demanded new ones.

"It's by far the fastest track I ever stepped on," said Owens.

Chuck Hornbostel, the big middle-distance star from Evansville, Ind., agreed.

"If I don't do 10.1 on that track I never will," Owens continued. "There are likely to be as many records set here as at Los Angeles. It's not too soft and not too hard but just right and springy.

Quite a few Americans, including Glenn Cunningham, the flying Kansan, remained in camp yesterday and listened to a description of the events through loudspeakers.

They cheered Owens' and Metcalf's victories in their 100 meters heats and the American sweep in the high jump, but gloom hung thick for a few minutes after they heard about the failure of Jack Terrance, the Baton Rouge, La., policeman, in the shot put and of Don Lash in the 10,000 meters run.

All knew Terrance had not looked well in training, but they hoped he suddenly would get right in the games. They realized Lash was handicapped by an injured leg and had another chance in the 5,000 meters event.

"Trying to beat those Finns at any distance past 1,500 isn't my idea of sport anyhow," Cunningham said.

Most of the pains have left Cunningham's temperamental legs, but they were still a little stiff from yesterday's workout.

The first day's big laugh was furnished by John Woodruff, negro Pitt freshman.

Glen Hardin had the boys in the mile remarking the dizzy pace the long-striding Woodruff ran in his 800 meters heat. All agreed that the tall boy changed his pace at least a half dozen times without reason.

Hornbostel admitted that he looked around virtually in a dead heat with Phil Edwards, Canadian negro.

"Wish I'd been running in the finals. I can't ever remember feeling better," the Hoosier said.

Neither Hornbostel or Woodruff was figured to be greatly extended to survive today's quarter-finals. However in today's program turned to Helen Stephens, outstanding woman athlete from Fulton, Mo.

I. A. A. F. Will Not Accept Owens' 10.2 As New Record

Berlin, Aug. 3 (AP)—The International Amateur Athletic Federation today announced it would not accept Jesse Owens' time of 10.2 seconds in yesterday's quarter-final trials of the Olympic 100-meter spring as a world record.

The American negro's time lowered the listed world record by one-tenth of a second as he led Switzerland's formidable Paul Haenni to to tape, winning by four yards.

Officials of the I. A. A. F., who meet daily to decide matters arising during the Olympics, said they can not recognize it "on account of there was a too strong back wind."

At the time Owens made his sensational dash observers noted there was a slight quartering wind but they expressed the opinion it was insufficient to affect the records.

CLINTON AVENUE CHANGES TO FAIR GROUNDS TONIGHT

The scheduled softball game between the Clinton Avenue and Presbyterian church teams for Tuesday evening at the Armory field has been changed to the Fair Grounds, and will be played tonight.

Harold "Chicken" Smith will probably do the hurling for the Presbyterians with Ferris Williams on the mound for the Methodists. Teague and Bess will do the catching.

Large Salt Shipment

Myers, N. Y., Aug. 3 (AP)—Seven million pounds of rock salt, the largest shipment in recent years from this up state salt-mining area, was loaded into barges today for Boston, New York and Bangor, Me. It was brought from mines 2,000 feet under Cayuga Lake.

Colonials Beat Maplecrest, 11-7 Lose to Napanoch Sunday by 5-2

The Kingston Colonials broke even in two games played over the week-end. On Saturday afternoon they defeated the Maplecrest nine by 11-7 and on Sunday lost to the strong Napanoch team by 5-2.

Cullen tossed them over for the locals at Maplecrest and allowed nine hits while his mates garnered 12 from the offerings of Mackey and Peck. Mackey started the game for the Maplecresters but was pounded out of the box in the seventh and Peck finished up. Cullen twirled a good game for the Colonials and was in bad trouble only in the fourth when the losers shoved four runs across.

Ted Freleigh and Johnny Carpenter featured with home runs for the Kingston team while Joe Hoffman and Jim Turck garnered triples and singles. Dougherty hit out three safties for Maplecrest.

Colonials Lose To Napanoch

Pounding out four runs in the third inning, the Napanoch nine defeated the Colonials by 5-2 Sunday afternoon at Napanoch.

Dewey Van Buren toed the slab for Kingston and the third inning barrage led by Weinstien's home run, proved his undoing. Frank Bruno relieved Van Buren in the fourth and pitched three hit ball for the remainder of the game.

Napanoch made eight hits off Van Buren and Bruno and Kingston garnered the same number off Weinstien. Knight and Carpenter led the Colonial attack with two hits each.

Apple Knockers Beat Newburgh 8-4 At Williams Lake

Art Kaplan's Old Catskill Apple Knockers upset the famous Newburgh Terrors at Williams Lake today 8-4. The Terrors were Orange county champions three times but were unable to fathom Speedball Benny Toffel in yesterday's game. Benny held the down river boys to four scattered hits and fanned 11 men setting a new strikeout record for the season. The losers failed to get a hit until the sixth.

P. Willis was tossing them over for the Terrors and was nicked for 12 bingles. Newell and Brooks led the attack for the Knockers. Jack Kelly led the attack on Willis with Noonan, McElrath and Chilson had two each.

ST. REMY CALLS OFF GAME WITH CLOSI CLOWNS

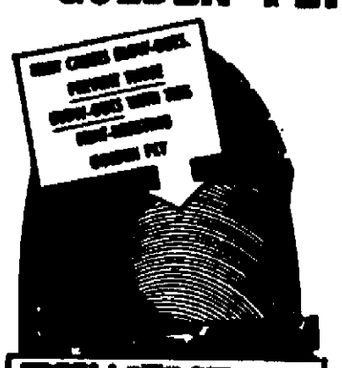

The St. Remy-Closi Clown game scheduled for the St. Remy diamond Sunday afternoon was called off at the last minute by Manager Longsdyke of St. Remy.

There's a surprising amount of optimism nowadays. Some legislatures lately have voted what they call "permanent" relief appropriations.

Riding on unsafe tires is a gamble no motorist can afford to take. Your brakes and your steering gear may be in perfect shape—but could they hold you on the road if a whirling tire suddenly blew out? The law of averages is all against you, unless you're properly protected.

At today's high speeds the tire gets blistering hot inside. Rubber and fabric separate. A blister forms and grows bigger and bigger until—sooner or later—BANG! A blow-out—that might have been prevented if your car had been equipped with Goodrich Silvertowns.

Silvertowns have something no other tire in the world has—the Life-Saver Golden Ply, a layer of special rubber and full-floating cords, scientifically treated to resist internal tire heat. By resisting this heat the Golden Ply keeps rubber and fabric from separating—keeps blisters from forming. And when you prevent the blister, you prevent the high-speed blow-out. Play safe. Have your Goodrich dealer equip your car with a set of Golden Ply Silvertowns. Remember, they cost not a penny more than other standard tires!

Local Netmen Lose, In Poughkeepsie 5-4 Beat Powelton Club

Confident and careless, the Kingston Tennis Club saw its hopes for an unbeaten season wrecked by a better team last Saturday at Poughkeepsie when the locals were whipped 5-4 by a fast, hard hitting Poughkeepsie Tennis Club team that sewed up the match early by taking four of the six singles and one of the doubles matches to insure a one point victory.

The singles play was something of a bout with Rose, the big gun of the Kingston forces, beaten on what seemed to be his way to a sure victory. Playing against Peeler, ace of the Poughkeepsie forces, Rose battled his way from seeming defeat to a 4-2 lead in the deciding set only to weaken in the boiling sun and fade as Peeler outlasted the Kingston veteran. The same proved true of Hancock playing number two for Kingston against Kreiger of Poughkeepsie. Leading 5-3 in the second set the local player lost his lead and was humbled by the superior play of Kreiger who had the winning shots at his command when he needed them. And big Bill Lester, counted as a sure win for Kingston in the number three post, was rusty from a month's tennis inactivity and went down in straight sets before the steady play of Professor Northrop of Poughkeepsie. Kingston's four wins were attributed entirely to the excellent play of Bob Herzog and Nick Fowler who won their singles assignments and then went on to register additional wins in the doubles. Playing a winning brand of tennis all afternoon, Herzog and Fowler were the strength of the Kingston team and their joint play saved Kingston from what might have been its worst defeat in years. Herzog had an easy time of it against Gurnsey, dropping only four games in two sets, but Fowler had to come from behind in his match with Podret and win in three long sets. Ed Strong, key man in the Kingston lineup, rushed through his first set against Ingersoll of Poughkeepsie and then faltered and lost in the last two sets when his booming drives went out of control.

The match summary:

Peeler, P defeated Rose, K 6-4, 4-6, 6-4

Kreiger, P. defeated Hancock, K 6-4, 7-5

Northrop, P. defeated Lester, K 6-1, 8-6

Herzog, K defeated Gurnsey, P. 6-2, 6-2

Ingersoll, P defeated Strong, K 4-6, 6-1, 6-4

Fowler, K defeated Podret, P 4-6, 6-2, 6-4.

Peeler-Kreiger, P defeated Lester-Hancock K 6-4, 6-2

Herzog-Strong, K defeated Gurney Ingersoll, P. 6-4, 9-7.

Rose-Fowler, K. defeated Potter-Knauss, P 6-1, 6-1

Powelton Club Defeated

On Sunday afternoon the Kingston team defeated the Powelton Club of Newburgh 5 3, in a return match, to even up the score for the week-end. The count at Newburgh was 3-all at the finish of the singles. The second and third doubles teams clinched the match when Stan Hancock and Ed Strong routed Schoonmaker and Millard in two sets, 6-4, 6-3, and Jansen Fowler and John Burgevin beat the Bates brothers by 6-4, 6-0. The first doubles team of Randall Rose and Bob Herzog at the end of a set apiece with Frank Luce and Jones, called their match off as Kingston had already won.

The singles started off none too auspiciously for the locals when Luce defeated Rose of Kingston 6-3, 6-2, and Herzog met defeat at the hands of Sam Schoonmaker, 6-1, 6-1. Stan Hancock scored first for Kingston with his victory over Millard in straight sets by 6-3, 6-3. The score stood 2-1 in favor of Powelton when Jansen Fowler was beaten 6-1, 8-6 by O Bates. John Burgevin then counted for Kingston with his win over A. Bates, 6-4, 6-1, and Hank Osterhoudt tied up the score at 3-all when he defeated Smith of Powelton 6-4, 6-3.

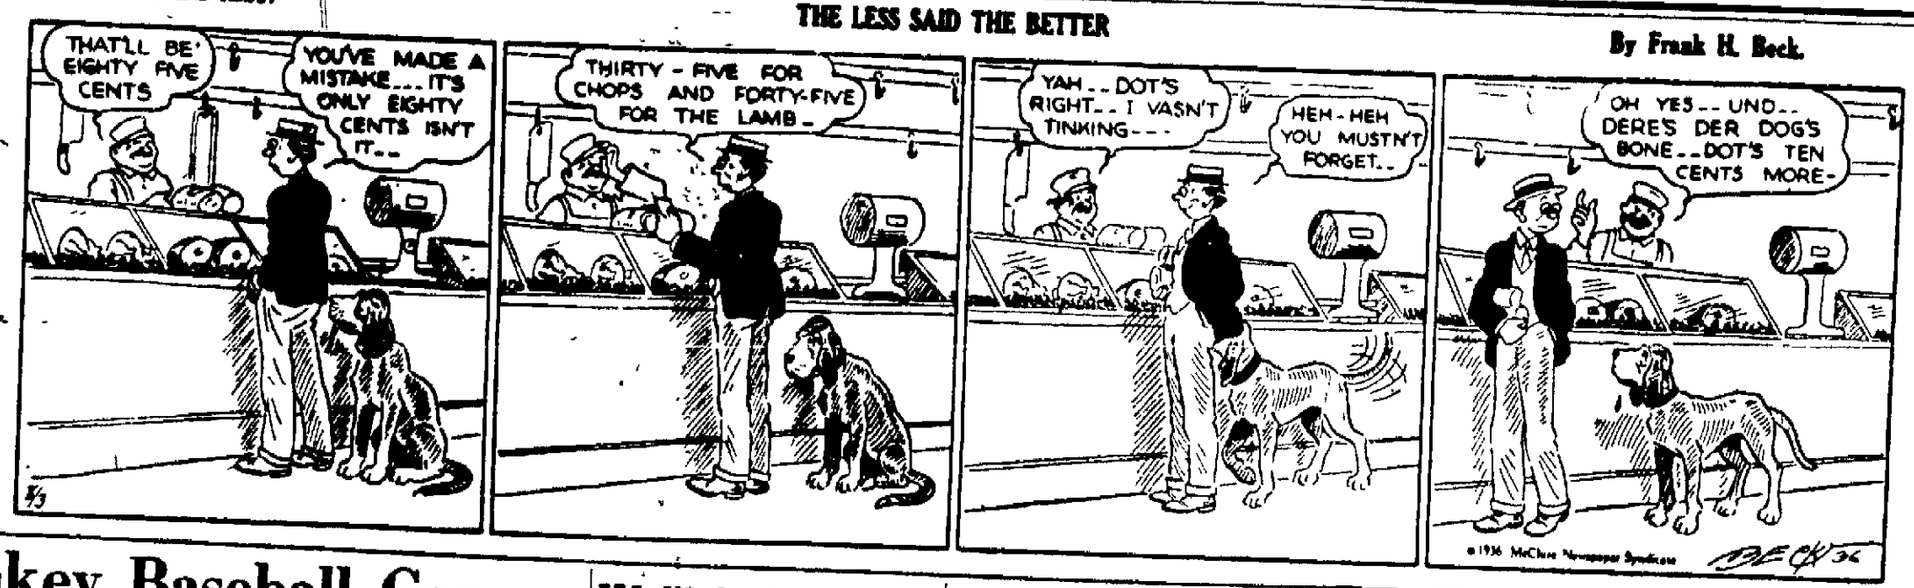

Next Sunday the Kingston team will play host to Monroe.

Donkey Baseball Game Tonight at Armory Field

The stage is all set for that hilarious exhibition known as a game of donkey baseball, to be played at the Armory field on North Manor avenue this evening.

The advance sale of tickets indicates that plenty of people are aware of the fun in store for those who attend the game. One member of the Kiwanis Club, which is sponsoring the entertainment, Dr Parsons, reports that he has disposed of 200 tickets. Returns from all the ticket sellers are not in, but it is expected that there will be a very large attendance.

Two games will be played this evening. The first, which will start at 6.30 sharp, will feature the Central Hudson and Appleknockers teams.

The second game, to start as near 7.30 as possible, will be between teams representing the Kiwanis Club and the Lions Club.

Paul Zucca, chairman of the Kiwanis committee in charge, states that he has not received the line-up for the other teams, but that the Kiwanis Club will be represented by Bill Mellert, Ray Garaghan, Charles Snyder, Sam Messinger, Bob Herzog, Alderman J. H. Tremper, Justice Roger H. Loughran, Clarence Schoonmaker and Morris Samter.

Proceeds of the game are for the Welfare Fund of the Kiwanis Club.

Kristics Win Over Kaslich A.C. By 4-3 In 11 Inning Game

Davie Rask limited the Kaslich A. C. to seven hits Sunday afternoon at Rosendale and the Kristics chalked up a 4-3 victory over the Kingston boys in an 11 inning thriller. "Schoolboy" Bush was on the mound for the A C and was touched for 10 hits.

Kristics scored first in the third inning when they pushed three runs across. Four scoreless frames followed until the eighth when the Kaslichs tied up the count at 3-all. The A. C broke the tie and won the game in the 11th.

Ad Stumpf got three hits and two walks in five trips to the plate and was the only man who seemed to fathom Rask's curves. D Rask, H. Rask and Regan hit twice each for the winners.

Berardi A.C. Noses Out Phoenicia By 9-8 in 12 Innings

The Berardi A C. nosed out Morgan's Phoenicians Sunday afternoon on the mountain town diamond by 9-8 in a game that went three extra frames. The score was tied at 8-all at the end of the regulation number of innings.

Lester and Bock allowed the Berardis 17 hits while Cullen and Chick held the mountaineers to 13. Murphy and Schatzel led the attack for the winners with three hits each. Tairburn featured for the losers with a triple, double and single in six trips to the platter. Tommy Maines and Elmer Hopper hit home runs for the A. C.

Sudden Air Gust Boosts Glider Hop

Ellenville, N. Y., Aug. 3 (AP)—A sudden current of air, which caught William Flacek's glider just as he was landing, gave it such a boost that Flacek made the longest flight recorded in the week-end glider meet here.

Flacek, whose home is in Little Ferry, N. J., was only 250 feet above the landing field when he felt a warm air current pushing upward. He began climbing and before he stopped he was 2,000 feet above the field, or 4,000 feet above sea level. He flew for an hour and 19 minutes.

Fifty-five members of the Metropolitan Soaring Society of New York, New Jersey and Connecticut attended the meet. They plan another in the fall.

Wallkill Defeats Montgomery By 5-2 Stanton Allows 3 hits

The Wallkill Prison nine defeated the Montgomery Farmers at Little Yankee Stadium by 5-2 before a good sized crowd of spectators. Stanton, the fast ball artist who tossed them over for the prison team, allowed only three hits to the Farmers, who were completely baffled by his speed. Stanton pitched shutout ball until the eighth and fanned seven batters.

Darargo set the pace with three out of four in a nine hit attack on Terry. Nocian featured for the winners with his home run clout.

On Wednesday night the Wallkill boys will cross bats with the Wallkill All Stars in the second twilight game of their three game series. Last Wednesday the prison team won by 1-0. Next Sunday they will play host to the Berardi A C of Kingston.

WEST SHOKAN

West Shokan, Aug. 3.—A party of young folks enjoyed a hot dog and marshmallow roast Friday evening at Lambert's Grove. The group included: Hostess, Mrs Hazel Geyer, Mr and Mrs Francis Whispell, George Byron, Joe Haier, Jack Murphy, Robert Bishop, Florence Muller, Alfred Smith, Eleanor Butler, and friend Betty, and Cornelia Davis. Each one departed seemingly enjoyed himself very much and thanking the hostess, Mrs Geyer, for the pleasant evening which she provided for them. During the evening the happy group was visited by Troopers Raymond J Dunn, William Eller and Deputy Sheriff DeSilva.

E C Davis was a caller in Kingston on Saturday.

Mrs Bertha Thompson is still unable to be about the house due to a heart condition. She is under the care of Dr Hans J Cohn of Shokan and all trust for a quick recovery.

The annual oats harvest was threshed on Thursday at Maple Dell Farm. Approximately 100 bushels was the yield which the proprietors consider good for such a dry season. Several neighbors giving a hand included Willard Crispell, Roy Van Demark, Gene Davis, Harold Constable and Elwyn Davis with his team.

Mr and Mrs Anthony Massimo are entertaining their daughter-in-law and grandchildren at their West Shokan Heights summer home.

Julius Sagendorf, Jr., of Maple Dell Farm summer guest, is laid up due to a chipped ankle bone, caused by a misstep while playing ball. He hopes soon to be able to discard crutches in order to start a scheduled preparatory summer college course before entering with the regular term opening in September.

Dahlia To Be Named Peggy Anne Landon at West Park Show

Walt Ostrander, Kingston men's clothier and furnisher, will again enter his dahlia exhibit at the West Park Flower Show on September 10. This year he is offering a timely feature. He is going to name his new seedling "Peggy Anne Landon" dahlia after the daughter of the Republican presidential nominee. His novel way of getting permission to use Miss Landon's name may be of interest. He simply took her picture out of the rotogravure section of one of the newspapers, pasted it on an envelope and just wrote "Topeka, Kansas" under it. It reached its destination promptly; and Miss Landon replied:

"My dear Mr. Ostrander:

Thank you for your kind letter of June 13. I shall be happy to have the new seedling dahlia named after myself.

Sincerely,
PEGGY ANNE LANDON"

Mr. Ostrander has been a regular exhibitor at the West Park Flower Show each year since it began seven years ago. He has enjoyed marked success at these shows with his splendid dahlia exhibits. Last year he was able to capture the first, second and third prizes in the various classes for dahlias.

HIGH FALLS

High Falls, Aug. 1—Miss Betty Walton of Saratoga Springs is a guest of Miss Winifred Smith.

Mrs. Saul Mayer and daughter, Marylyn, have taken an apartment with Mrs. Mary Stevens. Mr. Mayer spent Monday with them. They are now entertaining Miss Beverly Gothlieb from Somerville, N. J.

Herbert Snyder, Jr., of Poughkeepsie is visiting his grandmother, Mrs. Thomas Snyder.

David M. Sutton of Highland was a caller in town on Thursday.

Miss Vivian Shianni of Bridgeport, Conn., is spending her vacation with her grandmother, Mrs. Mary Stevens. Mr. and Mrs. Ira Krome of Kingston called on them Thursday evening.

The frame annex of the old De Puy tavern build in 1797 and now owned by Walter Davenport has been razed. Landscaping will be next in order.

Alvah Bell has just purchased a new Ford sedan from the Shokan dealer.

A second annual carnival will be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday, August 20, 21 and 22, for the benefit of the High Falls Fire Co.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Goatthet and Mrs. Tillie Mayer were week-end guests of Mrs. Saul Mayer.

Dr. Hobert M. Agnew of Montclair and his fiancee were week-end visitors here.

Mrs. George F. Hamm and infant son, John Mosley, returned home on Thursday from the Benedictine Hospital.

High Falls delegates, District No. 1, of Marbletown, elected at last Saturday night's caucus to attend the Republican county convention Saturday at the Municipal Auditorium, Kingston, were W. D. Quick, LeRoy Krom and James H. Sheeley.

Mrs. Hannah Elting of Walden is spending some time with her nephew, George Hoffman, and son, Leslie.

Mrs. Clifford Donohue and sons, Donald and Paul, and Mrs. Grace Winne of Kingston, were callers at Hillcrest on Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Walter Farrell and son, Gerhardt of Brooklyn and Miss Marie Miller of Jackson Heights are spending some time with Mrs. Mary Stevens.

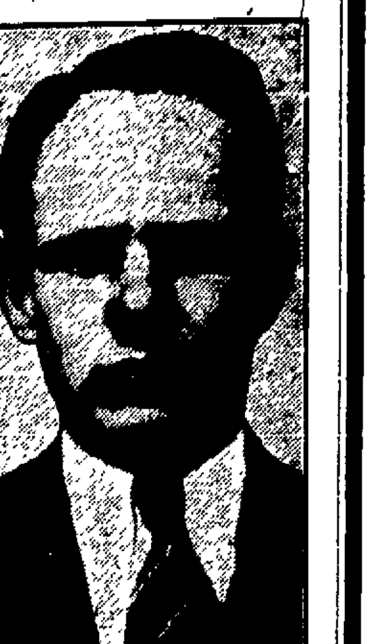

Legion Clambake Was Big Success

The clambake held Sunday by Kingston Post, American Legion, at Walton's Grove, Lucas Turnpike, was said to have accommodated the largest crowd ever in attendance at an annual bake sponsored by the Legion.

The affair, first held under the new commander, William Roedell, augurs well for the activities of the organization. Sunday's crowd was of overflow capacity and many were accommodated in the grove itself, there being insufficient room in the bake pavilion.

All arrangements were carried out smoothly by the various committees and a spirit of fun and frolic marked the entire proceedings. Following the bake dancing and visiting were enjoyed.

Threatened Shirley

Sterling Powell (above), 16-year-old Grant, Neb., farm boy, pleaded guilty to a federal charge of writing a letter demanding $25,000 from the parents of Shirley Temple, child film star, on a threat of harm to the child. (Associated Press Photo)

ATTRACTIONS

At The Theatres

PREVIEWED

Today

Broadway: "The Poor Little Rich Girl". Shirley Temple, surrounded by her brightest cast, plays the role of a pampered little daughter of wealth in the show on view at the Broadway. Tired of her luxurious existence, little Miss Temple escapes her nurse and strikes out on her own. During the course of events she strikes up a friendship with an aspiring radio team and helps them find success and romance. In fact the little star showers joy and friendship on numerous other people during the play and the entire production is an optimistic study in laughter, singing and gayety. There are five song hits by Gordon and Revel and Miss Temple's assistants in the fun are Michael Whelan, Alice Fay, Jack Haley, Gloria Stuart, Henry Armetta, Sara Haden, Claude Gillingwater and Jane Darwell. Irving Cummings directed and the picture was produced by Darryl F. Zanuck. A hit attraction, recommended to eevryone.

Kingston: "San Francisco". Returning to Kingston by popular demand, this lusty tale of the Barbary Coast and of the great earthquake that shook San Francisco into a city of terror, is as entertaining a picture as one could wish for. Most of the action centers around a gambling hall proprietor and his love for an opera singer. The story of San Francisco's rapid growth and its early lawlessness is well filmed and the entire show is produced on a lavish scale. The earthquake scenes are especially noteworthy and the play moves swiftly and entertainingly to an acceptable climax. Clark Gable, Jeanette MacDonald, Spencer Tracy and Jack Holt are among the standout performers in a cast numbering thousands.

Orpheum: "Little Lord Fauntleroy." The world famous story of the little American boy who discovers himself to be a titled Englishman and who goes to Britain in a state of perplexed wonder, is also one of the finest of the year's motion pictures because of the excellence of the cast, the careful adaptation and the unusually brilliant dialogue of this David O. Zelznick production. The play stars the winning Freddie Bartholomew and features Guy Kibbee and Dolores Costello Barrymore.

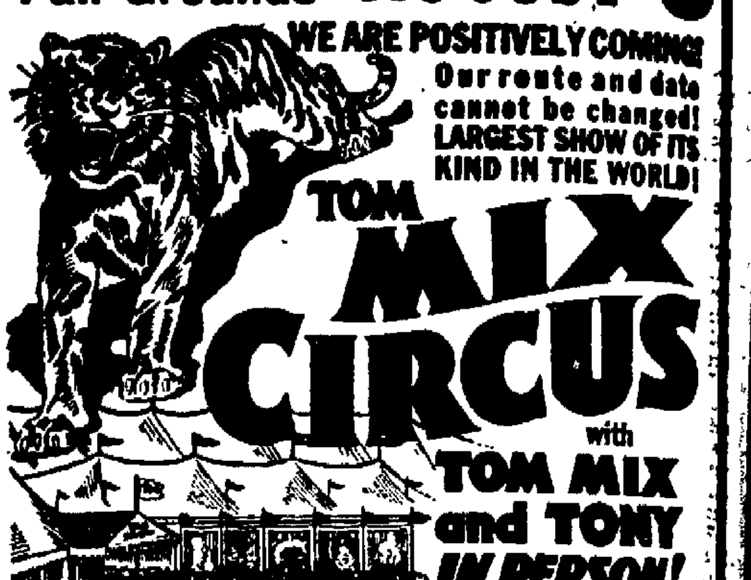

Tomorrow

Broadway: Same.

Kingston: "Bunker Bean" and "Blackmailer." Two spirited films form the double feature at the Kingston, the first a story of a boy who saw his big chance and snatched it, the second a crime play concerning the art of blackmail. Owen Davis, Jr., Louise Latimer, Robert McWade and Jessie Ralph are featured in the first attraction while William Gargan and Florence Rice are the main players in the other production.

Orpheum: Same.

DuBois for Coroner Completes Ticket

ing the designation said that there was a great difference between the Democratic party and the New Deal. There are many Democrats today who are wondering what has happened to the Democratic party. He devoted the major part of his acceptance talk to reading extracts from the Democratic platform on which Mr Roosevelt was elected, and said that the platform had been repudiated by the President in the past three years

"There has been no balancing of the budget, said the congressman, and we are spending more than double our income. We had 11 million unemployed men three years ago and we have the same number today who are out of work

"We have lost the world markets, he said, and allowed other countries to take away our trade. We are paying a subsidy to our farmers for not working their land.

In closing he said that unless there was a change in administration the end of economic America was in sight, and that the country would face bankruptcy, and that we could expect the repudiating of the national debt.

Cashin Names Wicks

Corporation Counsel John M. Cashin nominated Senator Arthur H. Wicks for the designation of state senator He said that Senator Wicks had been serving as senator since 1926, and that his record had proven that he was a man who kept his feet on the ground in these troublous days. Senator Wicks had worked unceasingly to save Ulster county from the pernicious legislation that New York city had tried to jam through the legislature to exempt its aqueduct property in Ulster county from taxation. If New York city had proven successful in the attempt it would have placed a tremendous financial burden on the taxpayers of the county. He called attention to the fact that Senator Wicks had introduced the legislation that provided for the set up of the TERA in the state.

Senator Wicks Accepts

Senator Wicks in accepting the designation said that he was not unmindful of the honor that had been conferred upon him for the sixth time, and urged the convention members and the committeemen of the county to forget the Democrats this fall and see to it that every Republican vote was cast at the polls in November. If that was done it meant that Ulster county would again return an overwhelming Republican majority for every candidate on the Republican ticket.

Elsworth Names Conway

Attorney Roscoe Elsworth in placing the name of Assemblyman J. Edward Conway before the convention for the designation of assemblyman said that he was naming Mr. Conway to succeed himself on the record he had made during the past four years in Albany. Senator Wicks seconded the nomination of Assemblyman Conway.

Assemblyman Conway in accepting said that as there was considerable business still before the convention he would not attempt to speak at length at this time but later in the campaign he expected to discuss issues at length.

Fowler Names Traver

Former County Judge Joseph M. Fowler placed the name of County Judge Frederick G. Traver before the convention for the designation of county judge He spoke briefly of the record that Judge Traver had made in the office, both as county judge and as judge of the children's court. Judge Traver before becoming county judge served the county efficiently first as assistant district attorney and later as district attorney, and was well grounded both in criminal and civil law. Judge Traver had proven himself well qualified for the office he has filled with distinction.

Traver's Decision

County Judge Traver in accepting the designation said "Win or lose this year I shall never again seek public office". He paid a high tribute to Judge Fowler who had made one of the best county judges in the history of Ulster county, and in closing he thanked the convention for the honor bestowed upon him in designating him to succeed himself.

Murray Is Named

Attorney John Wadlin of Highland presented the name of District Attorney Cleon B. Murray as the convention's designation for the office of district attorney, and said that the district attorney had proven most efficient in office.

District Attorney Murray in accepting the designation said that he would continue the same policies he had carried out since he had been district attorney and with the aid of the police officials of Ulster county would continue to make Ulster county a place where criminals felt it wise to steer clear of.

Walton Names Simpson

Former Senator Charles Walton named County Clerk James A. Simpson as the party's designation for county clerk, and said that under the administration of Mr. Simpson the county clerk's office had been conducted in a most efficient manner, and that the affairs of the office had been conducted in a manner that had never been excelled for efficiency.

County Clerk Simpson accepted the nomination and pledged himself to continue the policies he had inaugurated when he became county clerk.

Only One Contest

Mayor C. J. Heiselman placed the name of Coroner Leston D DuBois before the convention for the designation of coroner, while Daniel Van Alst of Shawangunk presented the name of Jess McHugh of Wallkill. This proved the only contest in the convention and resulted in 144 votes being cast for DuBois and 114 for McHugh.

Mr. McHugh moved that the vote be made unanimous for Mr. DuBois.

Delegates Named

The convention selected the following delegates and alternates to attend the Republican state convention in Albany on September 29 and 30: Delegates—Philip Elting, Dr. Alice Divine, Mrs. Laura Rose, Ruth Brinnier, Mary Otto, Senator Wicks, Assemblyman Conway, Roscoe Elsworth, Robert A. Snyder, Mayor Heiselman, Herbert Thomas, Frank J. LeFevre, George Rusk and James A. Simpson; alternates—Katherine Walker, Marguerite Quick, Beatrice Washburn, Anna Brink, N. LeVan Haver, Jennie Arnold, Robert Parks, Luther Dusinberri, Pratt Boice, John B. Sterley, Benjamin Slutsky, Dr. Leonard McCambridge and Mace Gerber.

Senator Hanley Spoke

Senator Hanley of Perry, N. Y., delivered the keynote speech at the convention. His address was printed in Saturday's Freeman. He held the close attention of his audience for over half an hour, and was heartily applauded.

At the close of the convention the delegates were entertained at dinner at the various hotels and restaurants in the city.

Dutchess Fair Plans Rodeo

Officials of the Dutchess County Fair are rapidly completing negotiations for the appearance of an old fashioned wild west rodeo which is to be the chief entertainment feature of the 32nd annual showing of the fair which opens on September 1 and closes September 4 Benson R. Frost, Rhinebeck, secretary of the fair, stated today he expected to make final arrangements shortly with Phil Wirth of New York city, business agent for the famous Cy Compton Rodeo, the personnel of which includes over 40 horses and steers fresh from the cow country of the great southwest.

GIRL ADMITS HATCHET SLAYING OF MOTHER

A calm confession of how she hacked her mother to death while her sweetheart pinioned the victim's arms was related to police at Bayonne, N. J., by Gladys MacKnight, 17, shown in custody of two officers. The girl said the slaying followed her mother's refusal to prepare supper early so she and her companion, Donald Wightman, 18, could play tennis. (Associated Press Photo).

LATE SUPPER BLAMED BY SWEETHEARTS FOR SLAYING

A late supper which delayed their tennis game was blamed by Gladys MacKnight, 17, and her 18-year-old sweetheart, Donald Wightman, for the cold-blooded hatchet slaying of the girl's mother in a confession which police at Bayonne, N. J., announced they had signed. The girl, according to the confession, hacked her mother to death while her companion, radio religious hour singer, held the woman's arms The pair are shown as they were booked. FLATBUSH ENDEAVORERS HOLD OUTDOOR MEETING

Sunday evening the Christian Endeavor Society of the Flatbush Reformed Church sponsored an outdoor service on the lawn in front of the church building.

About 20 persons gathered to participate in a song service that not only included group singing by the assemblage, but also featured a duet by Gladys Klothe and Charlotte Edinger, and a solo, "Trees" by R. Elizabeth Ryder. A short recitation by Carolyn Ryder and a paper read by Willis Ryder, rounded out the program which was in charge of Breier Drucker.

MARY SHIPMAN ANDREWS IS DEAD IN SYRACUSE

Syracuse, N. Y., Aug. 3 (AP)—Mrs. Mary R. Shipman Andrews, whose story "The Perfect Tribute" has become a classic narrative about Abraham Lincoln, is dead.

The noted author succumbed late last night in a hospital where she underwent an operation nearly a week ago.

She published many books and short stories between the turn of the century and 1922, but she was known throughout the country for her Lincoln narrative.

First published in Scribners' in 1905, it later was published in book form and sold 600,000 copies.

TELLTALE PRONUNCIATION

The Carters Give Vera a Public Snub.

Vera and the Carters have an entirely wrong idea of each other—all because of pronunciation!

She thinks they're snobs because of their frosty greeting. The Carters think Vera is a little nobody, a misfit in their world.

No wonder. Vera simply murders the language when she speaks. Makes a mess of common words as well as hard ones.

We might any of us slip on "cello," and call it "SELL-o" instead of "CHELL-o," or pronounce "heinous" as "HEE-nus" instead of "HAY-nus."

But Vera says "He AST me," not sounding the K in "asked". "COLumn" she calls "COL-yum." It's "UM", not "YUM". She says "RObust" for "ro-BUST," "LAMENTable" instead of "LAM-en-ta-ble," and "alias" as "a-LYE-as" instead of "AY-li-as."

You yourself judge people by their speech. You hear a story on the radio. How do you decide what each character is like? By the speech, of course. Guttural voice, slurry enunciation, mispronounced words—these instantly mean a negligible, unpolished personality.

Don't place yourself in the "outsider" class by offending with bad pronunciation. Check up on your speech. Our 48-page booklet WORDS MOST OFTEN MISPRONOUNCED has lined up the tricky words for you. Wipe out one error a day. Make your speech an asset, not a millstone.

Send 15c for our booklet WORDS MOST OFTEN MISPRONOUNCED to Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Institute, 259 W. 14th Street, New York, N. Y. Send 15c additional and also receive our booklet, CAN YOU ANSWER THIS ONE? 25c for both booklets when ordered together. Write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAMES of booklets.

Even a tombstone will say something good about a fellow when he is down.

Customer—I want a sandwich.
Waitress—What kind?
Customer—Something real striking
Waitress—How about a club?

When a man is campaigning we wonder where all the money comes from, and after he's elected where it all goes.

Diner—That chicken you served me was an incubator chicken.
Waitress—How do you know?
Diner—Any chicken that had a mother couldn't be that tough

A Cog in a Wheel

A man there was of unusual gifts bearing an honored name,
Life came to him with outstretched hands proffering wealth and fame;
But he carelessly turned his head away, the prize made little appeal
Contenting himself with a minor part, he was only a cog in a wheel.
When opportunity knocked at his door it found him inert and deaf;
Long and patiently it waited there, but he did not come to himself
Golden chances he wasted like chaff, he took no account of the real,
Each day a monotonous grind to him, he was only a cog in a wheel.
In the image of God this man was made. With power to do and serve;
Strong of mind and body was he, but he lacked essential nerve.
So he drifted along from day to day, without ambition or zeal,
Playing a dull and nondescript part. He was only a cog in a wheel.
What place do you fill in life's machine? Are you using your gifts aright?
Today have you wrought some truly fine thing? Can you claim to have fought a good fight?
Will it be said that you played the game? That your life was productive and real.
Or will the world say, as it goes on its way, he was only a cog in a wheel?

—Grenville Kleiser.

Mother—Did I see you kissing young Allen last night?
Phyllis—Well, mother, he told me he had just lost an uncle, and I felt so sorry for him
Mother—If I know anything about that young man he won't have a relative left in a week's time.

We must all realize from time to time, that we are in the grip of forces that are stronger than we This is why adjustment is so essential to all who would not be cast aside into ruin.

Girl—My little brother will tell if he sees you kissing me!
Boy Friend—But I'm not kissing you!
Girl—Well, I thought I'd tell you anyway.

A soft answer turneth away wrath. But if the radio is going you can't hear a soft answer.

Friend—I always feel better after a good cry.
Woman—Does it get things out of your system?
Friend—No, it gets things out of my husband.

The fellows who marry rich girls don't seem to get much out of it except a big house and a lot of servants.

Two negro women were discussing present conditions:
Opaline—It sho' am too bad, ain't it, dat dis heah depression had to come jes' when times is so hard?
Mandy—It sho' is. It sho' is.

The man with the most decided opinions has usually had the least experience.

May—Can a girl live on love?
Joe—Yes, if she stays single.

Don't spend your money foolishly The government will attend to such business

Judges To Choose Safest Driver Today

Albany, N Y, Aug 3 (AP)—Judges chosen by the New York State Automobile Association met here today to select the states "safest driver."

Meanwhile, William F Kearney, district executive in charge of examiners who test candidates for operators' licenses, reported that an analysis of the 27,000 traffic accidents in the state between January 1 and May 31 showed general failures of drivers to adhere o the 20 rules they obeyed in their road tests

Any applicant who commits any of these 20 traffic "sins' gets a 'failure" mark in his license quest, Kearney said They are Failure to keep to the right, poor shifting, repeated stallings, ignoring traffic rules, swinging wide on turns, swinging short on turns, speed at intersections, rolling on grade (permitting car to back down when starting on hill), poor control over steering gear, delayed braking

Also failure to give pedestrian right of way, near accident, reckless driving reacts too slowly in emergency, failure to signal on turning, assisted or coached (by someone riding with applicant); poor judgment in traffic, poor parking by backing or refusing to follow instructions

The judges' choice as New York's "safest driver" will join the No 1 drivers of 47 other states and the District of Columbia in a Safe Drivers' Motorcade and Conference sponsored by the American Automobile Association in New York city September 1 and 2.

Boat Captain Sees No Recovery Hope

Whitehall, N Y, Aug 3 (AP)—Captain George N Sweeney looked back over a half century of sailing on Lake Champlain today and expressed doubt that the bodies of three flyers drowned in the crash of a good will airplane would be recovered

The 84-year-old skipper who claims to be the oldest steamboat captain on the lake, said he could recall the drowning of at least eight persons in the vicinity of Essex where the airplane on a good will flight to Montreal carried four persons to their death June 27 The machine was raised last week but only the body of Steve Kay, the pilot was recovered

The airplane was salvaged from a depth of 300 feet

Captain Sweeney told of a deep sea diver who went down in search of the body of Walter Palmer, Jr., son of a Clinton county man who was then a state assemblyman After descending 100 feet, he asserted, the diver returned to the surface

"I wouldn't go down there again if they gave me all of New York state," the skipper quoted the diver The man, he said, reported encountering a whirlpool which rendered him practically helpless

Kingston Post Holds Membership Drive

Distribution of Federal Adjusted Compensation Bonds on June 15 brought to the World War veterans of New York state an object lesson in one of the incidental advantages of membership in the American Legion Through department headquarters and their own post officials Legionnaires learned of the special provision of the New York state law under which veterans wishing the proceeds of their bonus bonds in real estate are entitled to exemption from taxation of the amount so invested Application for this exemption must be made to local assessors before August 10. The service and information rendered veterans on the laws concerning them are many.

Kingston Post No. 150, American Legion, has now started its 1937 membership drive.

As Fresh as her Tu-lips!

CIGARETTES, like lovely ladies and tall tulips, are most alluring, when they're freshest.
And, when those cigarettes are Double-Mellow Old Golds, made from prize crop tobaccos, neither time, nor money, nor effort is spared in guarding their priceless freshness. Every pack of Old Golds is wrapped in double Cellophane. TWO jackets of Cellophane. Moisture-proof. The highest quality.
It is this ingenious double wrapping that locks out dampness, dust, and dryness . . . that seals in double-mellow flavor, smoothness, fragrance . . . that gives you, in every Old Gold, the deep enjoyment of fine tobaccos, really fresh.
Outer jacket of Cellophane opens from the bottom
Inner jacket of Cellophane opens from the top
. . . and made from the finest Prize Crop Tobaccos
